

Roosevelt Hints At Special Term On Crop Program

Says Control Legislation Needed at 'Earliest Moment'

MAPS 'OBJECTIVES' Says He Disagrees With Invalidation of AAA Plan

Grand Forks, N. D.—(AP)—In an address strongly hinting at a special session of congress, President Roosevelt asserted today "surplus crop control legislation" ought to be passed at the earliest possible moment.

Mentioning the supreme court—convening today for its fall term—for the first time on his western trip, he disregarded with its majority ruling invalidating the AAA form of production control. He also quoted excerpts from a letter from a retired member of that court—John H. Clarke—saying he saw "eye to eye" with the president as to his social-economic and peace program.

The president spoke in dedicating a federally-sponsored grand stand at the fair grounds, coming here from Fort Belk dam, Montana, where he rebuked "doubling Thomases" who have been critical of his objectives.

Better Land Use. Declaring better land use in the arid regions and control of surpluses were the "two objectives" of his farm program, he told his Grand Forks audience:

"I feel certain that a majority in both houses of the congress will heed the wish of most of the farmers of the nation in enacting crop surplus control legislation. And it is my thought that legislation toward that end ought to be passed at the earliest possible moment."

Then, evidencing he might be thinking of a special session, he continued:

"Because this legislation was not passed at the last session, it is too late for it to have any bearing on the winter wheat which is now in the ground."

Time Is Needed. "Even after a bill is passed and becomes law on the signature of the president, it takes a month or two before it is humanly possible to set up the machinery in all parts of the country to carry out the provisions of the new law. If, therefore, new legislation is to affect the 1938 crops, haste seems to be important from every angle," he said.

The president did not mention his defeated plan to enlarge the supreme court. In leading up to his criticism of the AAA decision, he said he believed it was "essential to our national economy that we have something to say about the control of the major crop surplus."

President's View. "I have never subscribed to the constitutional theory," he added, "that agriculture is a purely local matter and that it has, therefore, no national scope."

"I am more than ever convinced of the importance of continuing our national policy of working towards a better economy by stabilizing and improving the life of the average family," he continued.

The president, citing many examples of the need for surplus control, declared: "If an enormous surplus of wheat piles up on the hands of buyers and speculators, you know from past experience how the price of wheat will drop almost out of sight the following year. Neither you nor I want to repeat the experiences of 1932."

He said the program already under way of educating land users to put non-crop soil into grass, of bringing water to dry soil, and of helping farm families to resettle on good land, was bringing returns.

"The money we are spending on these objectives," he said, "is already coming back as increased national income and will be repaid in the long run, many times over."

Tomorrow, the president will conclude his western trip with a prepared speech dedicating the Chicago outer link bridge. Then he leaves for Hyde Park to spend two

WILL VISIT U. S.

European observers see a new political life for the duke of Windsor (above) in his decision to study labor problems in the United States. It also was rumored that he will become the adviser of his successor, King George VI. In America there was speculation that he and his bride, the former Wallis Warfield, may become part-time residents of this country.

New Political Life Is Seen For Duke of Windsor as He Plans Labor Study in U. S.

Paris—(AP)—The duke of Windsor's intention to take his American bride to the United States to study labor problems in her native land was believed by foreign observers today to open a broad, new political life for the labor-minded former British emperor.

The announcement that the duke and duchess would make a survey of housing and working conditions in Germany and the United States "soon" loosed a flood of speculation on Edward's future.

Thomas H. Carter, a royal household official acting as his secretary, disclosed the plans in a formal statement yesterday. He declined, however, to answer any questions on whether Windsor was preparing for a possible role in politics or would become an adviser to his brother and successor, George VI.

Somb British quarters attached significance to the fact that the announcement was made by an official of the privy purse office— which, they said, seemed to indicate King George himself probably had been consulted in advance and had approved Windsor's tour.

Observers predicted, however, the trip was certain to lift Edward from the limited social circle in which he has mingled since he abdicated the throne last December to marry the former Wallis Warfield, Baltimore divorcee.

With another week's stay in Paris his only known engagement, the duke is expected to start shortly on the tour with his wife of four months. The duke had told friends he intended to make a sentimental voyage to the Chateau de Candé, where he and the duchess were married last June 3.

Although Windsor did not say what would be the ultimate purpose of his studies, the announcement's reference to "experience" intimated that they would be pointed particularly to politics.

"The duke of Windsor has always interested himself in the well-being of the working man," it said. "He looks forward to opportunities that future travels to other countries may afford of gaining further experience on this subject."

MAY LIVE IN U. S.

New York—(AP)—Reports the exiled former British monarch, the duke of Windsor, and his American bride might become part-time residents of the United States were revived today as they planned an American visit.

While the terse announcement of their projected trip here gave no hint of their plans beyond a study

American Flier Faces Trial but Will Win Pardon

Salamanca, Spain—(AP)—Harold E. Dahl, American war pilot who has been an insurgent prisoner since last June, was calmly confident today that he will escape from a court martial with his life.

The 28-year-old flier from Champaign, Ill., is almost certain to be condemned to death by a military tribunal before which he will be taken with three Russian pilots tomorrow on charges of "bearing arms against Spain."

But insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco, answering the supplications of Dahl's wife, has promised clemency for her newly-wed husband. The trial, therefore, is virtually certain to be a mere formality in which the death sentence will be overruled.

It is expected Dahl will be pardoned outright or exchanged for an insurgent aviator held as a government hostage.

The defense will be that Dahl, who adopted the name of Hernandez Diaz when he was given a Spanish passport, enrolled through the Spanish government embassy at Mexico City as an aviation instructor and was forced to fly in combat only at gunpoint.

Fond du Lac Labor Union Case Opens In Madison Court

Firm's Lawyers Claim Controversy Involves Interstate Commerce

Madison—(AP)—Circuit Judge Robert S. Lewis, LaCrosse, today heard arguments of attorneys in the case of the state labor relations board against the Reuping Leach company of Fond du Lac, charged with attempting to discourage workmen from joining a union.

The company, represented by Attorneys Leo Mann and James T. Guy of Milwaukee, contended that because it is engaged in interstate commerce, the orders of the Wisconsin labor board requiring it to cease certain unfair labor practices cannot be enforced.

Attorney General Orland S. Loomis and N. P. Feinsinger, representing the board, disputed the defendants' stand on the ground that a showing would have to be made that the alleged violations themselves involved interstate commerce.

The board earlier in the year heard charges the leather firm had sponsored a company union and tried to keep workmen, interfered with organization of a Textile Workers' Organizing Committee local, and forced the men to join a company union. It was further charged the company discharged a man named Asaf for union activity, demoted another named Gilbert, and threatened others.

Fear for Safety of Americans at Chefoo as Chinese Threaten Port

Shanghai—(AP)—The safety of American refugees at the port of Chefoo, in Shantung province, 400 miles north of Shanghai, was imperiled today by a Chinese threat to destroy the breakwater protecting the harbor.

Chinese military authorities warned United States Destroyer Squadron No. 5 to evacuate the harbor within 48 hours as they might find it necessary to blow up the wharf, making the harbor unsafe for shipping.

Admiral Harry Yarnell, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, expressed the fear that destruction of the breakwater within the time limit would seriously handicap evacuation of American civilians as it would make landing rescue boats almost impossible.

Approximately 80 American civilians are now at Chefoo, which has been used as a summer harbor by the American fleet since 1907.

Public Barred As Oil Trial Is Launched

Defendants, Lawyers and Reporters are Admitted by Cards

23 FIRMS INVOLVED

Jury to be Continuously In Custody of Marshal During Trial

Madison—(AP)—Marital status of prospective jurors became a concern of federal court today in selection of 12 jurors and two alternates to try 23 oil companies, 3 trade journals, and 46 individuals on price-fixing conspiracy charges under the Sherman anti-trust act.

After Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone announced the jury, when drawn, would be locked up under the custody of the federal marshal for the duration of the trial—estimated by court attaches to last three or four months—the judge asked each of the 30 prospective jurors drawn this morning whether he is married. Two-thirds replied "yes."

No juror had been chosen when the court recessed at 12:30 p. m.

Marshal John Comford, faced with a task of finding space for the large number of defendants and attorneys, issued admittance cards to the oil executives, their counsel and newspaper men, thus keeping the attendance well below the 23 capacity of Judge Stone's courtroom.

One hundred members of the panel called for prospective jury service, together with the witnesses, remained outside the room until they were to be called.

Seeks Immediate Trial. Court proceedings opened with renewal of a defense motion for immediate trial of Bernard L. Majewski, Chicago, vice president of Deep Rock Oil corporation, who had been summoned as a witness for the government.

A number of the defendants had not secured their admittance cards from the marshal when Judge Stone began calling the roll. The court instructed bailiffs to usher them into the courtroom—card or no card—and after a brief delay the proceedings were underway.

One of the defendants, Edward Karstedt, Denver, former vice president of Continental Oil company, did not appear. Judge Stone granted a defense motion to excuse him.

In Marshal's Custody. The court announced that after the jury is selected the panel will be continuously in the custody of the marshal from the beginning to

Justice Black Seated As Court Defers Action On Levitt's Challenge

Decision on Motion May Be Announced Next Monday

ROOM IS CROWDED

Alabaman Does Not Repeat Oath as New Member

Washington—(AP)—The supreme court deferred action today on a motion by Albert Levitt, designed to compel Associate Justice Hugo L. Black to show cause why he should be permitted to sit on the high tribunal.

Whether the court will grant or deny the motion probably will be announced next Monday. Action could be taken at any time, however.

Proceedings were brief. Levitt merely arose and said he had submitted the motion asking permission to file a petition challenging the Black appointment. He did not read the motion.

"You may submit the papers," Chief Justice Hughes told him. Levitt acted a few minutes after Black had taken his seat on the high bench.

The justice, whose appointment by President Roosevelt aroused a storm of controversy over whether he had been, or was still, connected with the Ku Klux Klan, entered the room with the other members of the court just after the noon hour.

OIL TRIAL JUDGE

Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone (above) is presiding at the trial of 23 major oil companies, 46 executives and 3 trade publications which opened today at Madison.

Because it was necessary to provide room for the many defendants and attorneys spectators were barred.

No Action Taken. The resolution was promptly introduced in both houses but no action was taken today. The relief question, on which the lawmakers have been working two weeks, was temporarily shelved.

Senator Joseph C. Clancy (D) Racine, branded the executive message as the "cheap tirade of a politician."

Clancy said it was "unique, coming as it does from one who recently took time out from his administrative duties to go fishing."

The governor's program, of which only general details were disclosed follows:

Agriculture: Plans to increase the income of farmers through quality products and at the same time reducing the spread between what the farmer now receives and what the consumer must pay for agricultural products.

Industry: Creation of a state department of commerce to assist in the prosperous development of industry.

Wage Agreement Ends Controversy

Total Increase in Pay Envelopes Is 35 Million Per Year

Chicago—(AP)—Operating employees of the nation's major railroads went to work today under a new wage agreement which will pay $35,000,000 a year more in their pay envelopes.

The agreement, calling for a 44 cents a day raise for 250,000 employees, train and yard service employees, signed last night by heads of the big railroad brotherhoods and representatives of 86 carriers.

It ended protracted negotiations for a 20 cent pay increase demanded by the brotherhoods.

Railroad representatives estimated the increase would add an average 66 cent to the workers' annual earnings.

Last Aug. 25 the railroads granted a 40 cents a day wage increase for an estimated 750,000 members of the non-operating brotherhoods.

Initial demands for wage increases were made jointly about a year ago by the operating and non-operating brotherhoods. In several conferences the groups agreed to demand a 20 cent raise and the requests were put to the railroads.

Subsequently the non-operating group accepted a 40-cent a day increase.

Federation Heads Prepare for War With CIO, Lewis

Executive Council Says 'Policy of Tolerance Has Failed'

Denver—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, told the federation's fifty-seventh convention today that the hour had arrived to start a united fight against John L. Lewis' CIO.

While the delegates shouted and stamped their approval, Green said: "The clock has struck. The hour is here. Having appealed to them for two years to come back, you will now order your board of directors to revoke the charters of this dual movement."

Black, in his sole public statement on the klan charges, told a nationwide radio audience Friday night that he had once joined the klan but had resigned and never rejoined.

Just before Levitt arose, Patrick Henry Kelly, Boston attorney, asked permission to challenge the Black appointment.

After a brief exchange with Chief Justice Hughes, he was told by the chief justice to submit the motion in writing.

Kelly took the seat, wrote a few moments on sent papers to the clerk of the court.

He said this was the text: "I request a hearing on the title of Mr. Justice Black to his seat on this court."

Kelly, a slender man dressed in a dark business suit, made his motion after being ruled "out of order" once, while attorneys were being admitted to practice.

"I arise to the question of personal privilege as a member of this bar," he said on the second attempt.

"Is your motion in writing?" the chief justice demanded.

"It is not in writing," Kelly replied. He added that he had written letters to each of the justices asking appointment of a committee on the matter.

"Please put the motion in writing and submit it," Hughes said sharply. "Oral statements are not permitted on a motion of that character."

"This situation is such that technicalities should not—" Kelly began.

"You may now take your seat," the chief justice commanded sternly.

"I will write out my motion," Kelly said as he sat down.

"Submit it to the clerk and it will be considered by the court," Hughes directed.

During the 22 minutes the court

Highway Safety Measure Receives Senate Approval

Madison—(AP)—The senate adopted 20 to 6 today a highway safety bill sponsored by Senator John C. Ashland (D) Denmark, which requires periodic, compulsory examination of automobile drivers and provides for revocation of licenses within discretion of the courts.

The Cashman bill was introduced as a substitute for an administration highway safety measure killed last week in the senate. The senate still has before it an assembly bill which follows more closely the administration's plans.

Before adopting the Cashman bill, which died in the assembly with sine die adjournment of the regular session, the senate tackled an amendment by Senator Oscar Morris (R), Milwaukee, which exempts out-of-state automobile owners who use Wisconsin highways from paying license fees in this state.

Mussolini Sends 'Fervent Wishes' To Insurgent Head

Message to Franco Blow to Anglo-French Move in Spanish Conflict

London — (AP)—A message from Premier Mussolini expressing "most fervent wishes" for an insurgent victory was considered today to have dashed the strong Anglo-French move to force withdrawal of Italian volunteers from the Spanish civil war.

The informed Italian press indicated it would turn down the French and British invitation to a three-power conference on ending aid to both Spanish factions despite a hint his refusal would bring a retaliatory opening of the French border to supplies of war for the Madrid-Valencia government.

London observers saw little evidence in Mussolini's note of congratulations to insurgent Generalissimo Francisco that change of heart which the British and French have tried to persuade themselves they had seen in his attitude since their determined stand at the Nyon conference brought Italy into the Mediterranean anti-piracy patrol.

Hope for Moderate Reply

There was still hope, however, that the reply would not be a blunt refusal to join France and Britain around a conference table at which there were only three chairs, but would be a suggestion that the question of withdrawal of volunteers as well as the whole Spanish problem be referred once again to the London 27-nation non-intervention committee.

London and Paris were awaiting the arrival of it due's note with ill-concealed impatience. It was expected within the next few days after Italy had conferred with Germany.

Both France and Britain have indicated they would block an effort to relegate the withdrawal of volunteers to the unwieldy non-intervention committee. The sudden attack made by Russia on the committee Saturday added to the diplomatic anxiety here.

Russian Stand

Russia chose just the moment the Anglo-French invitation was dispatched to inform the committee members she no longer saw any point in complying with the regulations requiring her to embark observation officers on her ships bound for Spain.

Just a day before he received the note designed to effect withdrawal of thousands of Italian soldiers fighting for the Spanish insurgents, it due sent Franco the following message:

"On this first anniversary of the elevation of your excellency to the supreme post of state, I have the joy to address to you my congratulations for the results obtained in the course of this year of struggle against the forces destructive of civilization.

"In the name of fascist Italy, which follows the vicissitudes of this struggle with passion, I form the most fervent wishes for the triumph of the national (insurgent) cause personified by your excellency."

Governor Wants to Give WDA Power to Condemn Property

LaFollette Also Expected To Ask for Bonding Power for Utility Units

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison, Wis.—Executive office aides have let it be known that Governor LaFollette has already had drawn and is considering presentation to the legislature now in session a bill which would drastically extend the scope and the influence of the Wisconsin Development authority, better known as "the little TVA," which is even now awaiting a test in the state's highest court.

It was learned over the weekend that the bill which Governor LaFollette has had drafted would give the WDA, one of the principal LaFollette achievements in the 1937 legislative session, the identical authority that municipalities now hold in condemnation proceedings and in the acquisition of private utilities, and moreover, would permit the authority, an extra-governmental agency, to issue bonds for financing public ownership of public utilities.

The WDA was enacted a few months ago after a spectacular fight by LaFollette opponents in both legislative houses, and considerable whip cracking over the heads of Progressive lieutenants by the administration. Recently its constitutionality was upheld by the Dane county circuit court, but an appeal has been taken by Milwaukee taxpayers' organization.

The WDA is regarded in Progressive circles as the climax of the Progressives' generation old demands for public ownership of utilities. Through its operation, they hope eventually to bring the electric power industry under public ownership.

It is now understood that the governor plans to submit this revised WDA bill to the legislature sometime this week, together with an ambitious list of other legislative proposals, unless the houses refuse to extricate themselves from the stalemate in which they drove themselves last week.

If the legislature passes speedily his original $3,000,000 "fire department" relief bill—and the senate has already indicated on a test vote that it is favorable—it is supposed that the governor will amend his legislative call, to provide for a revision of the WDA, a farm standards program, a public welfare reorganization bill, removal of fair trades practice codes for the service trades and a new department of commerce bill.

2,000 Future Farmers Flock to Madison for Meeting and Contests

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison, Wis.—Buses, trucks, automobiles and trains literally poured 2,000 high school students of agriculture into Madison Saturday for two big events in their school program, the annual convention of the Wisconsin chapters of the Future Farmers of America, and the twenty-third annual high school judging contest sponsored by the state university of college agriculture.

The boys, all students in high school agriculture departments, and their blue and yellow caps proclaimed, are the operators of America's farms of tomorrow. While in Madison they mixed business with pleasure, roamed over the city on sight-seeing tours, and Saturday afternoon attended the Marquette-Wisconsin football game en masse.

The students judged classes in the following events: fat stock, dairy cattle, poultry and eggs, crops, potatoes, apples, dairy products, meats, farm merchandise, singing and farm facts. A total of 171 prizes were distributed among the boys attending, who represented 500 more than last year because of the addition of 29 agricultural departments in high schools throughout the state this year.

The young farmers nominated 56 from their ranks for the honor of the Wisconsin Farmer degree as rewards for outstanding achievements in agricultural work during the past year.

Included in the nominees are Jerome Hallada of Algoma, Oscar Malotky of Clintonville, Oscar Hintz of New London, Charles Basler of Oshkosh, LaVerne De Munck, Wilbur Bohnhoff and Clinton Brott, Plymouth, representing the north-east section.

Larson, Beaver Dam agricultural instructor.

Neopit Indian Also Discusses Saw Mill and Logging Operations

Clintonville—James Frechette of Neopit, a college-educated Indian, was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Wolf River Council of Men's Clubs Friday evening at St. Martin Lutheran school auditorium in Clintonville. Mr. Frechette talked on the Menominee Indian tribe, tracing its early history and its growth up to the present time. He also described the million dollar saw mill built at Neopit by the government and told about the extensive logging operations carried on by the Indians on the Menominee reservation north of Shawano. The speaker was introduced by Erwin Pinkowsky, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Other numbers on the program were community singing, a one-act play by the Senior Young People's society, and instrumental numbers by the Hoosier Hot Shots, a local orchestra. Over 150 members were present representing clubs at Shawano, New London, Manawa, Embarras, Clintonville, Wittenberg, Tigerton and Big Falls. The evening closed with a social hour and the serving of lunch.

On Oct. 24 the Shawano Lutheran men's club will be host to members of the Wolf River Council and their wives at the Community hall there. The invitation was extended at the meeting here by Grover Beverdort of Shawano, president of the council and Carl Raddant, president of the Shawano club.

Those present included friends from Clintonville and Shawano. High prizes awarded at each table went to Mrs. James Devine of this city, and to Mesdames Gordon Peterson, O. A. Reetz, Athol Kuekuk and Orrie Williams of Shawano.

Trade School Classes Open to More Students

Classes in hospitality, men's cooking, and art appreciation at the vocational school are open to more students, according to Miss Mabel Burke, head of the homemaking division.

Although the sewing classes held on Wednesday and Thursday nights are popular, there is still room for about 10 more persons, according to Miss Burke. Knitting classes are "filled to overflowing," she said, and nearly 100 women have registered for the physical training course conducted on Wednesday and Thursday nights by Mrs. Hazel Bamister.

Rival Labor Unions Seek Public Support as They Launch October Debate

BY MORGAN M. BEATTY

Washington—The two rival wings of organized labor have set aside the month of October to carry on a trans-continental debate.

In Denver, Colo., beginning October 4, the convention of the American Federation of Labor decides the Federation's strategy in its warfare with the Committee for Industrial Organization. A week later at Atlantic City, N. J., the CIO meets to set off any answering blasts the occasion may demand.

Clash of Personalities

It's the Federation's 57th annual meeting, and the first for CIO, two-year-old giant not yet provided with a constitution.

The bitter warfare has divided labor's ranks almost equally, each side claiming almost four million members, and has provided two outstanding personalities. On the Federation side is mild-mannered President William Green, and on CIO's, a dynamic, bull-throated Chairman John L. Lewis.

The differences between the Federationists and the Industrialists are fundamental and so difficult to explain to an outsider that you may expect to be confused when the two conflicting voices start blasting at you during the conventions.

Clash of Principles

Stripped of technicalities, here are the opposing philosophies: The American Federation of Labor (1) recognizes fundamental inequalities in human talents, and advocates rewarding the man with skill in his craft, and (2) militantly opposes active political partisanship among its officers, preferring instead to play political parties against each other.

The CIO believes (1) labor must gear its organization to modern mass production to enforce the principle that in numbers there is strength, and (2) labor should organize politically to express itself and to dangle blocs of votes over the heads and in the faces of other political groups.

CIO's Political Militance

Lewis has long been impatient with the Federation philosophy on the ground that it sacrifices the solidarity of labor for the sake of the skilled few. He gave up trying to bring the Federation around to a new way of thinking two years ago. Then he formed the CIO, severing diplomatic relations with the Federation and took 10 international unions with him.

Immediately CIO started after the mass production worker, putting the skilled craftsman in the same union with the man who screws a nut on a bolt in the assembly line—so long as both worked in the same industry.

On the political side, Lewis and his colleagues organized Labor's Non-Partisan League, an excellent corollary for labor votes.

The situation on the eve of the cross-country debate was this: The Federation had "suspended" the international unions in Lewis' CIO, but had taken no action to "expel" them forever. Lewis took the position that he was not interested in anything the Federation did, but that was probably little more than a pose.

Warning The "Bad Boy"

At Denver the question is: "Should the Federation expel the CIO?" The answer of the long-headed leaders who have controlled the Federation for years is a startling "No!"

What you may expect at Denver is that the Federation will produce resolutions condemning Lewis for accepting the support of communists and an order to state and local federations to keep on outlawing local Lewis unions.

This would close the door to Lewis men in city and state federation groups, but leave the gate ever so slightly ajar for him in the national, or rather international, Federation of Labor. This also would put the Federation in the position of the tolerant and kindly parent, who warns his bad boy of his errors, but stands ready to forgive and forget.

Also expect the Federation to go after the unskilled mass production man, much as Lewis has gone after him.

CIO's Next Step

At Atlantic City, Lewis will be prepared to expel any propaganda the Federation might throw the public's way. And if the Federation gets too pugnacious, expect Lewis to:

- (1) Announce a permanent Federation of some kind as a rival to the old Federation; (2) launch off the communistic label the Federa-

Farmers Facing Labor Problem

Situation Acute in Many Counties, Milk Pool Publication States

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—An "increasingly more serious farm labor problem" in Wisconsin was reported by the Wisconsin Dairymen's News, organ of the Wisconsin Cooperative Milk Pool, last week.

A survey conducted by the paper showed, it said, "in some sections farmers mounting the peak of seasonal labor needs found wages for farm help prohibitive; in others federal backed relief projects, with alluring hourly wage rates, cut the labor supply and prevented farmers from getting immediate help; still in other sections there is apparently no trouble."

The paper also warned Wisconsin farmers about "a new note of danger from the national labor front" in John L. Lewis' bid for farm support of the CIO and its organizing campaign.

The Pool publication declared that the farm labor situation is acute in many of the agricultural counties of the state, that NIA projects have been abandoned in Bayfield county on that account, and that farmers, particularly in Waushara, Manitowoc and other counties are unable to compete with the wage scales offered on relief projects.

Sponsored by the Wisconsin livestock breeders association and the state university, the exposition annually attracts almost 700 entries.

TRY THIS WAY TO QUICKLY RELIEVE ECZEMA ITCHING

If your skin is broken out with "fery" or "weeping" eczema, you want to relieve the intolerable itching and burning as quickly as possible. Resinol Ointment does this and also combats the irritation caused by eczema—its oily base being ideal for penetrating the outer layers of the skin and securing deeper action.

Wash the affected parts with warm water and Resinol Soap. It is especially suited to tender skin—soaps containing too much alkali may irritate. After washing off scales and crusts, pat dry with a soft cloth. Do not rub.

Apply a thin layer of Resinol Ointment, letting it remain for several hours. Apply again liberally at bedtime, leaving it on all night. The longer Resinol is in contact with the skin, the more good it does.

More Cabbage Is In Prospect for State This Year

Acreage for Both Market and Kraut Nearly 12 Per Cent Over 1936

There ought to be a lot of cabbage for "Jiggs" dinner this winter and sauerkraut lovers should have their appetites satisfied, too. In other words, the supply of cabbage this year is much larger than that of last year, according to estimates of the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States Departments of Agriculture.

Cabbage growers in the state report much larger acreages of both cabbage for kraut and for market than average, and although some damage was done during August by the dry, hot weather, the state's production this year is expected to be considerably above that harvested last year.

The crop reporting service estimates the Wisconsin crop of cabbage for kraut to be considerably over twice that harvested last year due to a large increase in the acreage and also higher yields per acre. Wisconsin's acreage of cabbage for both market and kraut is nearly 12 per cent above that of 1936 and the production is expected to be nearly 40 per cent more. Present estimates indicate that the state's cabbage growers will harvest about 108,900 tons of cabbage, of which 36,000 tons will be used for kraut.

NEW U. S. ARMY LIGHT TANKS CAN ATTACK AT 50 MILES PER HOUR

Uncle Sam's new dealers of death are these light radio-controlled tanks, each capable of attacking an enemy at 50 miles an hour while death pours from three machine guns. Recently put through their paces at Indian town, Pa., in Eighth division maneuvers, the speedy armored cars were guarded 24 hours a day against prying eyes of outsiders. For no foreign nation possesses anything like them and army, air corps and artillery are extending themselves to discover means of adequate defense against these high-powered destroyers.

What's New at the Library

The story of a party of American and English mountaineers who climbed to the top of the highest mountain ever climbed by man, without publicity or publicity, is told in "The scent of Nanda Devi" by H. W. Tilman which has been placed in circulation at Appleton Public library. Professor Graham Brown of Mount Foraker fame was the connecting link between the American and English groups. There was no official leader, but when the moment came for the final attempt on the peak, the author was voted to take the lead. He relates the experiences of the group without self-exaltation for glory-seeking.

One of the most beautiful books in the library is the collection of Van Gogh prints with a biographical sketch of the artist by William Uhde. The book is composed of full page plates of Van Gogh's works, many of them in color, which clearly show why he has never been surpassed in the field of color and their harmonious blending.

"Giant Liners of the World" by Alan L. Cary gives a description of each of the large boats now sailing the ocean including the Queen Mary, Normandie, Conte di Savoia, Ile de France and many others. Pictures are shown and detailed outlines of the liners are given.

A new approach to radio is given in a new book entitled "What About Radio" by Kenneth M. Goode which describes how money has been made in the use of radio in advertising and warns the reader away from a repetition of costly mistakes which have been made. It tells of successful experiences with radio advertising and draws upon a wide range of information regarding other ventures in radio selling.

Candy-making time draws near with the coming of snappy fall weather, and right on the dot comes a book about that art entitled "How to Make Candy" by Walter W. Chenoweth. In addition to a thorough discussion of the general principles involved in candy-making, details in concerning materials and procedure, it has more than 100 recipes which illustrate fundamental principles and practices.

A new approach to the age-old craft of the needle for the production of fine individual work is given in "Modern Design in Embroidery" by Rebecca Crompton. It includes four plates in facsimile color, 76 specially worked finished samples, 62 line sketch designs and 50 diagrams of treatment and stitches.

A constitutional monarchy living outside, if close to, London, a strong and independent trading class, and its inhabitants "utter ignorance of what was being said and done in other countries" are the most important influences which have molded the city of London, in the opinion of Steen Eiler Rasmussen, architect and town planner, who has published a new book entitled "London, the Unique City." Rasmussen has visited London regularly year after year, has studied the city and delved into its history, and bases his deductions on what he learned.

"Winfield Scott, the Soldier and the Man" by Charles Winslow Elliott is the biography of the outstanding hero of the War of 1812, the man who commanded in the Seminole, Creek and Black Hawk wars and led the American army that took Vera Cruz in 1847. Scott is depicted here as a gifted military leader, full of amusing idiosyncrasies, stately, awesome and very human.

Large Bee Colony Produces More Than Group of Small Ones

Of importance to honey producers is the statement by the Inter-mountain Bee Culture laboratory in Wyoming that a single strong colony will produce as much or more honey than a number of small colonies that have no more bees all together than does the strong colony.

It means a saving of labor and equipment, according to a bulletin received by R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent. The laboratory is operated by the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Experiments at the laboratory have shown that a colony of 60,000 bees will produce more honey than four smaller colonies of 15,000 each.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor
Cambridge, Mass. —(AP)—In the heavens above the south pole a Harvard telescope has photographed—and counted—36,000 galaxies—separate star systems, each like the Milky Way.

This means that if man had telescopic eyes and turned his face upward at night from the South pole, the sky would not be black, but one nearly solid sheet of light.

This particular sheet covers seven per cent of the sky.

It would have some dark places. But they would be due to dust far out in space, hiding still other galaxies not included in the 36,000. The eye doesn't see these star systems because they are too far away.

This host of celestial objects is only the beginning of what modern telescopes are beginning to discover in the space far out behind the visible stars. Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard observatory, estimates that the Harvard instruments alone will eventually photograph at least half a million of these distant galaxies.

Each is a collection of billions of stars. Each occupies a niche in space like that held by the Milky Way.

Questionnaires Sent Out on Fire Prevention

Fire prevention questionnaires of the Hortonville Fire department were being sent out today to students in the rural schools of the towns of Hortonville, Greenfield and Ellington by the county superintendent of schools. Purpose of the questionnaires is to make the students fire prevention conscious. When filled out, they will be returned to the fire department. Questions asked refer to the causes of fires, what can be done to prevent them and what to do when a fire is discovered.

The questionnaires are a part of Fire Prevention week activities in the schools.

A QUESTION PEOPLE OFTEN ASK: Is Camel justified in Spending Extra Millions for Costlier Tobaccos?

THE ANSWER IS THIS

CAMELS ARE THE LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA

WHY THE NEW National Open Golf Champion, Ralph Guldahl (right), prefers Camels. In his own words: "Camels are different from other cigarettes. You see, playing against an all-star field, my nerves run the gamut. Camels don't jangle my nerves."

GIRL RODEO CHAMPION. Rose Davis (left) says: "Camels always appeal to me, but I think that the Camels at mealtimes are the most enjoyable of all. They help keep my digestion working smoothly in spite of the jolting I take from bucking broncos."

SPEAKING OF DIGESTION and smoking, Dorothy Malone, food editor (right), says: "Many comments from my women readers show that they find smoking Camels a pleasant way to encourage good digestion. I myself smoke Camels."

"I'VE BEEN A FIRE FIGHTER for 11 years," says Frank Gillier (left). "Smoke? You bet I do. And I'm particular about my brand. It's Camels. There's the cigarette, if you want mildness! They're the last word in flavor."

"FIND THE RIGHT CIGARETTE and stick to it, is my motto," says "Duke" Krantz, veteran airplane pilot (right). "I was thoroughly sold on Camels right from the first pack I smoked 15 years ago."

It is homespun fact that nothing man does to tobacco can take the place of what Nature does. Camels are made of finer tobaccos into which Nature put extra goodness.

THERE'S only one way to get the best tobacco. That's to pay more for them. It has been a well-known fact for years that Camel pays millions more, year in and year out, for finer tobaccos. It's the natural way to put more enjoyment into smoking.

People have confidence in the mildness and goodness of the finer tobaccos in Camels. More and more smokers turn to Camels. They find that Camels are naturally milder and that the full, natural flavor of the costlier tobaccos is brought to perfection in the Camel blend. If you are not smoking Camels, try them now. And see if you, too, don't find that Camels mean unending pleasure!

"CAMELS go on my shopping list regularly," says Mrs. Richard Hemingway, New York matron. "I never want to be without Camels. When I feel tired, I smoke a Camel and get the grandest 'lift.'"

"I'VE GOT to have a cigarette that's mild," says Uva Kimmey, girl parachute jumper. "So I'm a Camel smoker. I find Camels so mild I can smoke as much as I wish without jangled nerves."

Says Black Talk Artful Avoidance Of Real Question

Speech Shocking Revelation of Unforgivable Fact, Lawrence Claims

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—There is really only one effective test by which to measure for oneself whether the speech of Hugo Black last week should earn for him the respect or condemnation of his fellow-citizens. It is by asking and answering this question: "Would Mr. Black have been confirmed as a justice of the supreme court if he had made the same statement to a senate committee before his nomination was acted upon as he made to the public last Friday night?"

In the judgment of nine of ten observers familiar with the penetrating power of the Ku Klux Klan issue in American politics, the senate would not have confirmed Mr. Black. Several senators who voted for him last August have stated publicly that, had they known of his Klan membership, they would not have voted to confirm him.

The speech delivered by Mr. Black was an earnest attempt to satisfy critics. It was phrased in much more balanced sentences than any previous address by Mr. Black, and, in that sense, was in good taste.

But the address was a shocking revelation of an unforgivable fact and an artful avoidance of the real charge against the man who was nominated for the supreme court by President Roosevelt.

First, Mr. Black describes vividly what might be the results of a revival of the controversy about the Klan, but he speaks not one word of regret or apology for having once joined a secret order which did precisely what he now fears may be renewed.

Second, Mr. Black says he resigned and never did rejoin the Klan. He wants his audience to believe that, when he resigned, he completely dissociated himself from the Klan. His resignation was dated July 7, 1925. He reappeared more than a year later, Sept. 2, 1926, at a Klan meeting and made a fulsome speech, thanking the members in Ku Klux Klan phrases for having helped him win the Democratic nomination, which, in Alabama, is equivalent to an election, to the United States senate.

Wanted Klan Support

Third, Mr. Black now denounces bigotry and intolerance, but, even though already nominated in 1926 to go to the United States senate, he sat in a Klan meeting and heard other members proclaim un-American purposes and express antagonism to racial and religious groups opposed by the Klan. Mr. Black was silent then because he wanted the continued support of the Klan. At that same meeting, he spoke of the "ideal of this great fraternity to which we belong." If he resigned in 1925, why did he continue to say such things about the Klan and attend its meetings a year or more later?

Fourth, Mr. Black at no point in his speech last Friday denounced the Ku Klux Klan by name. He insisted several times that he believed in complete religious freedom and in the right of everybody to worship according to the dictates of his own conscience. So did every member of the Klan. The Klan never opposed religious freedom. It insisted upon "white Protestant supremacy," and at the very meeting which Mr. Black addressed in 1926, he emphasized as do all Klan speakers, the desired dominance of the Anglo-Saxon race. The purpose of the Klan was to prevent Catholics, Jews, Negroes and foreigners from holding public office, and not to interfere with religious freedom. Its purpose was to discriminate in a business way against other groups and not to disturb their method of worship.

Fifth, Mr. Black misconstrued the episode as a personal issue. Nobody has accused him personally of being intolerant as against Catholics, or Jews or Negroes, but of lending his influence and membership to an organization which did preach restriction of the political rights of American citizens because of race or creed or color.

Sixth, Mr. Black boasted about his record in the senate on the matter of civil rights, but forgot to explain why he made this speech in the senate as recently as April 29, 1935, when the senate was debating the anti-lynching bill.

"We will have made ourselves, it seems to me, just a little absurd in view of the magnificent progress which we have made and the improved relationship which exists between the races who live in the country, if we stop the real business of the senate in order to consider a measure which, according to the maximum figures, would have affected only 14 people last year."

How about the relatives of the 14 Negroes and how about the millions of other Negroes who read about the lynchings and wondered if they would be among the next 14 to be lynched? Was this "liberalism," or protecting the civil rights of Negroes?

Mr. Black is plainly ineligible to sit on the bench because of a clause in the constitution which forbids appointment of any senator to any civil office during his term of service if any law is passed increasing the emoluments of the position to which he is about to be appointed. The emoluments of all supreme court justices were increased by a law passed in March of this very year.

To decide this, a "case" has to be brought under the constitution and under the statutes governing jurisdiction and, therefore, because of technical difficulties, the matter may never come to the stage of a formal ruling. If Mr. Black stays on the bench, his very presence there may serve constructively as a reminder of the half-trigger government—which nominated and confirmed him without investigation. If the episode prevents a repetition of government by impetuosity and the absurd practice of confirmation by the so-called "courtesy" rule, it will not have happened in vain. For the fact remains that a man who was nearly 40 years of age and old enough to know what he was doing took an oath in a secret order dedicated to religious and racial antagonisms. Such a man is obviously unfit to sit in judgment on his fellow citizens because it is plain that his political opportunism and ambition impaired the patriotism which he should have possessed. Oscar Underwood retired from the senate in 1926 rather than seek Klan support. Mr. Black sought it and won a seat in the upper house of congress.

Several weeks ago, when Mr. Black was nominated for the highest court of the land, he again exhibited what he believed was good political strategy—he kept silent while his colleagues jammed his nomination through without public hearings. He won again. But when the press, in full performance of its duty, exposed his Klan connections, a controversy started which will not end, as Mr. Black wishes it, with his statement on the radio. It will not end as long as the insult to the millions of Catholics, Protestants, Jews, white and colored citizens remains. It can be erased in only two ways—a ruling by the supreme court that Mr. Black was constitutionally ineligible, or by his voluntary resignation in deference to the demands of public opinion.

G-MAN TRAINING FOR POLICE

While there are many fine police officers in cities both large and small throughout the width and breadth of the land, it is a well known fact that efficient police officers are more numerous in the larger cities, chiefly because there they have the benefit of training schools. Those in the smaller cities who win success are the men of unusual native ability who make the grade the hard way, through the school of experience.

The astounding success of the G-Men under J. Edgar Hoover in wiping out gangs, and in practically putting an end to kidnapping as a profitable racket, is well known. There are many factors which have contributed to the success of this organization, but perhaps most of all were the selection of personnel and training. Above all training. Now the course of training given to the so-called G-Men is available to all police departments of the United States. The Federal Bureau of Investigation, United States Department of Justice, which is the proper name for the G-Men's organization, has opened its training course to one member of any police department, or other law enforcement organization.

Any police department is invited to select one representative to take the course covering a period of twelve weeks. The student selected should be the one best qualified to take the course of training and return to conduct training schools for the remaining members of his department. Three sessions of the FBI National Police academy are held each year. The courses of study offered are classified under: Police Administration and Organization; Investigations, Enforcement, and Regulatory Procedure; Firearms Training and First Aid; Statistics Records, and Report Writing; Scientific and Technical Subjects; Practical Law Enforcement Work; and Organization and Operation of Police Training Schools. The courses are almost identical with those offered for the Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Where federal agents are taught bankruptcy and anti-trust investigation work, the guest students are offered special work such as Traffic, Police Organization and Administration, the Operation of state and county police organizations, and other subjects especially adapted to the needs of state, county, and city police.

There is no cost to the student for the training or for the equipment used. The school is held in the Federal Bureau of Investigation training rooms in Washington and available to the students are the bureau's technical laboratory, its gymnasium, its indoor firearms range, outdoor firearms range, and the fingerprint identification division of the FBI.

The FBI National Police academy is inviting cities and counties to take advantage of this training course, and it is notable that 31 of the 41 cities in the United States having a population in excess of 200,000 have already been represented in the courses of the academy. In addition numerous smaller cities, and many counties have sent students to the academy.

It seems impossible that any city or county which pretends to maintain an efficient police department could long overlook this offer. The methods of crime detection perfected by the G-Men, and particularly their efficient system of training men should be practiced. Appleton has some bright young men in its police department who are capable of taking this course and bringing back its best points for use by the entire department. It might be a worth-while investment.

FAMILIES AT THE FRONT

The Japanese empress has contributed something to her people. She has written a poem for families of soldiers at the front, as follows:

"There are no words
 With which to console families
 Who live in worry
 Over sons and fathers at the front."

The Empress Nagako should write a poem of consolation for the Chinese at the front. Where that undeclared Japanese war is raging, the "front" is the homeland of the Chinese. The people being killed there are not alone soldier sons and fathers but non-combatant, helpless women and children, the sick and the aged.

TRAFFIC AT HORSE-SPEED

Today's automobiles, capable of moving at a speed of 80 miles an hour, are so slowed down by inadequate thoroughfares and poorly planned traffic arrangements that they go no faster than the horse and buggy of an earlier day. This, at least, is the situation in New York City, where frequent traffic lights and street intersections often reduce the motor car to a creeping thing. It is not so bad in smaller cities, although they have their traffic troubles, too.

Representatives of the automobile, petroleum, road-building, transportation and other industries took up this problem at a recent meeting of the American Institute of Steel Construction. They found a crying need for express routes in cities as well as between cities, with crossings eliminated by under-passes and with approaches from the side made easy and swift by means of clover-leaf ramps into correct traffic lanes.

The job of remodeling the nation's highway system on such a basis would cost $57,000,000,000, according to authorities, but it would be worth starting. Traffic accidents cost close to a billion dollars a year. Traffic congestion probably costs more than that. The purchase and use of automobiles is held down by these factors. Dr. McClintock of the Harvard University traffic research bureau believes the nation could buy 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 more automobiles than it now uses if the country had efficiently designed streets and highways. Something will be done about this, beginning soon, and we may see a highway system wholly different from today's lay-out.

GRANDEUR

Nazi Germany is emulating "the grandeur that was Rome." We Americans have done our bit in this line, erecting many a huge building when a smaller one would have served just as well. But the Hitler regime goes beyond anything we have attempted, except our big power dams and other works of an engineering nature. The stadium started in Nuremberg, for athletic performances and other spectacles, is said to be so enormous that the old Roman Coliseum, one of the world's wonders, would be lost in it. We have many large stadiums in America, but none approximating the German undertaking, 1,775 feet long, 1,446 feet wide and more than 300 feet high. It is intended to seat 450,000 spectators.

That will make a great spectacle when half a million people are gathered in it for a Hitler speech. With loudspeakers it is easy enough to address such a throng now. But visibility is bound to be poor in any such building. For most purposes, indeed for all except grandiose ones, smaller structures would serve better. It expresses the present Nazi ego. Or is it an inferiority complex, which drives nations, as it does individuals, to do things they can brag about and thus convince themselves that they're superior?

A really superior civilization doesn't have to do this sort of thing. Athens didn't, in the days of her ancient glory. She erected small but supremely beautiful buildings, a joy to look at rather than to shout in.

NEW WORD

An English professor in a Minnesota college announces a word designed to fill a great need in our language. It was suggested, he says, by a former student. The word is "broster," meaning "brother and sister." Some other languages, it seems, have a single word for that combination, but the English tongue has long been handicapped for lack of one. Now that there is help at hand, we're not sure we want it. And the explanation of how it is to be used is a little confusing.

"Broster" will signify one brother and one sister: "brosters" then means one brother and two or more sisters. Somehow or other the rescue squad has worked out "sproster" to denote two or more brothers and one sister, and "sprosters" for two or more brothers and two or more sisters. Thanks a lot for the thought, and all that, but we're willing to wear ourselves out using the longer and time-taking brother and sister expressions.

LOYALTY TO CONTRACTS

Several hundred delegates to the Steel Workers Organizing Committee, meeting in Cleveland and representing 80 lodges in five cities, have vigorously condemned unauthorized and illegal strikes against companies with which the unions have contracts. "A contract worth signing is a contract worth respecting," they say. They pledged themselves to do everything possible to enforce the observance of existing contracts.

If this attitude had been taken from the beginning by this group and its CIO brethren, the new labor movement in the mass production industries would stand far better than it does today with industry and the public. For any labor movement to succeed, there must be discipline, good faith and loyal performance.

SINCE this was written Saturday morning, your correspondent is slightly over the barrel for something to say about the Hugo Black bedtime story of the other night that will not look entirely like repetition . . . the Saturday and Sunday papers will have intervened before I come up to bat and the net result may be a trifle wearying . . . possibly I should skip the justice's little talk and confine my conversation to other matters . . . the fact that President Roosevelt, who SHOULD be extremely interested, didn't hear his appointee is puzzling to me at the moment, however . . . maybe Senator Rush Holt has something there with his remark about there being nothing more for Black to say since he plead guilty . . .

At any rate, the matter goes back to President Roosevelt and nestles snugly on his lap. It's an odd place for a KKK issue to be parked.

I trust it is only coincidence that is bringing the president and Cardinal Mundelein together in Chicago at this particular time.

Did I hear propaganda? Was Hitler being exorcised? Was Japan being threatened with a Russian defense of China?

Nope. It was just a musical program.

And about the dearest sound to be heard was the voice of Pat Flanagan telling about the Cub game last Friday.

In the general excitement lately, it has been somewhat overlooked. I mean the fact that Homer Martin of the C.I.O. chased away some of his own boys with a gun last week.

What Homer Martin is doing with a gun—he is, after all, supposed to be the head of a large union—is not clear to me, but it is also probably none of my business.

I do know, however, that Homer Martin would have shrieked, howled, run to John Lewis and made quite an issue of it had an employer warned C.I.O. boys to quit annoying him and emphasized his point by producing a gun.

The C.I.O. is undoubtedly taking care of its own future.

THE AFFAIR OF THE BLUE ANDALUSIANS

Last week we endeavored to explain that there was no scandal involved in the situation we discovered when we called to see how the Andalusian romance was progressing. You will remember we introduced a black Andalusian cock to a white Andalusian hen and left them alone together for a season. Then one day it occurred to us to drop in and see how they were getting along, and by jingle we found an astonishing situation, as indicated in this diagram:

INSERT CUT an'orx
 Immediately we betrayed our ignorance—or at any rate I did, whether you knew better or not—by glancing around for a unobtrusive grayish or spotted black and white stranger, but drew blank, as the best English mystery story writers say. So we passed the buck to the reader. The problem we submitted to the reader—presuming the reader is not an expert—was this: What will be the color of the offspring if a pair of these "blue" Andalusians elect to carry on the family line?

As I have said before, I can't carry in my head relationships beyond first cousins, my own first cousins at that. Possibly there are other individuals similarly handicapped. For their benefit perhaps we ought to provide the guinea-pig example as an aid in determining what the second generation of Andalusians will be. It seems that if a pure black guinea-pig and a pure white guinea-pig are blessed with a fine litter of little pigs, the little pigs are not gray or blue or spotted, but all pure black, or at least they are all black. Well, sir, a pig is not necessarily so black as he is printed, for, according to Mendel, when a pair of these all-black pigs in turn have young, the young are not all black and not mottled or spotted, but three-fourths of the young are black and one-fourth white, as a rule.

Cogitate that for a while and then your skill at deduction. What color will the second generation of Andalusians be and why? Remember, a pair of the first-generation, blue (really grayish in color) hybrids mate, and we'll say they produce a brood of four chicks. Quick, now, Watson, what color are the chicks?

We'll give the answer in the next article on heredity. Here it is fair to say that a "blue" Andalusian is really gray, or half and half, thanks to the black contributed by one parent, and the white contributed by the other parent. That's all you need to know. One must understand these simple problems of short division and rapid multiplication, so to speak, before one tackles the integral calculus of heredity.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Angina Pectoris
 Two doctors told me my "indigestion" pains really mean angina pectoris. On learning this I began taking nitroglycerin and found relief just as you described. Thank you. (W. J.)

Answer—Perfectly harmless, at any rate, for any one subject to angina pectoris, to carry a small vial of nitroglycerin tablets and take one tablet whenever an attack threatens or take one tablet three or four times a day. Each tablet contains 1-200th grain.

White Bread
 Your statement that bread contains practically no vitamins B, C and D is a very ignorant. A person can live a year on nothing but bread and water, but could anyone live a month on potato and water? (B. J.)

Answer—Yes, I believe one restricts to potato and water could get along better than one restricted to white bread and water. Of course, bread is three times as nourishing, in calories, as potato.

Multiple Sclerosis
 Can you please say if multiple sclerosis can be cured? (M. E. L.)

Answer—I know of no cure. Prof. Edward Mellanby has observed benefit from and advocates as part of the treatment a high vitamin A diet—which includes not less than a quart of milk, two eggs, liberal use of cheese, plenty of green leafy vegetable, carrots, etc., and two teaspoonsful of a good standard cod liver oil daily.

Your Birthday

"LIBRA"

If October 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 to 11 A. M., from 2 to 4 P. M., and from 8 to 10 P. M. The danger periods are from 7 to 9 A. M., from 4 to 6 P. M., and from 10 P. M. until midnight.

Be careful of questions this day because some of them may be decidedly tricky. Sincerity is apt to be a virtue many people will lack so take amplified statements, as well as magnified professions and praise, with a grain of salt. Hasty actions and quick movements must be avoided, for trouble is liable to originate from both. It will take very little to excite the average person, cause paroxysms of rage or extreme irritability this day. You must be able to verify any charges you see fit to make this day because lack of substantiating evidence, might place you in a very embarrassing position. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who are in love, will have to practice the Golden Rule, if this is to be a thoroughly enjoyable day.

If a woman and October 6 is your birthday, you may have many good intentions which you fail to put into effect. You must fight against a sense of false pride, keeping you from doing what loving kindness prompts you to do. Your judgment based on keen intuition, is generally good, but frequently is swayed by your likes or dislikes. You might be inclined to take offense too readily if friends' ideas do not coincide with your own. Your financial affairs ought to prosper, for you may be entering a cycle that will be most favorable for them. As a journalist, artist, model, actress, interior decorator, sales lady or store manager you should be most efficient and be richly rewarded. You probably will marry a man whose love and devotion will brighten your days and make your life well worth the living.

The child born on October 6, should be offered every educational advantage. During early youth popularity must not be permitted to interfere with this youngster's studies. Too frequently social activities prove to be a hindrance, rather than a help, to children born on this date.

If a man and October 6 is your natal day, be open-minded, if you wish to succeed. Stubbornness often is a stumbling block to persons born on this date when they are on their way to success. The army, navy, stage, pulpit, lecture platform, political arena or literary field are among the activities in which you might become famous.

A Bad Piece of Road

Editor Post-Crescent—I have noticed in the latest editions of your paper accounts of two accidents occurring on Highway 45 this side of New London, resulting in injury to the cars and their occupants. The accidents occurred because of skidding over a bad shoulder and striking a telephone pole. I had a similar accident at about the same point in that road last week when driving in the rain. My car skidded onto the shoulder where there is a three inch drop from the cement. My car also got out of control, threw me into the ditch, and barely escaped striking a telephone pole. It was only by sheer strength that I could avoid a serious smash-up.

I have examined that piece of road running two or four miles this side of New London and find considerable stretches of shoulder in the same condition as mentioned above. It occurs to me that you could do a service to the traveling public by calling further attention to this situation and bringing it to the attention of the Highway Commissioner, before other accidents occur on this particular stretch of road.

Sitting Bull's Title

Subject of Argument

Pierre, S. D. (47)—A movement to construct a new marker on the grave of Sitting Bull at Fort Yates, N. D., again has revived the question of whether the Sioux warrior was chief or a medicine man. Authorities have differed on his correct title for years.

Lawrence K. Fox, superintendent of the state historical department, maintains the tribal leader was a medicine man but was called chief "for the want of a better title."

Stanley Vestal in his book, "Sitting Bull," wrote: "There are several men still living who saw him inaugurated as head of the non-agency Sioux," and Charles H. L. Johnston called him an Unkappa chief. However, the band which Sitting Bull led was more commonly known as the Hunkpapas.

Fox says Sitting Bull's grave has been marked several times but the markers have been destroyed by souvenir seekers or vandals.

Doctors Seek Cause of

New Fever in Australia

Sydney, Australia (47)—A new fever has been discovered in Queensland, and doctors trying to discover its cause have named it "Q."

The "Medical Journal of Australia" says attention was drawn to the illness by a number of cases among workers in a Brisbane meat-works. Dr. E. H. A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — Jim Farley's reported decision to quit the government and become an economic nobleman, if not quite a royalist, ought to rescue him from a host of pangs.

The years of the open hand when Farley was the lord high dispenser of federal patronage were pleasant years for a man of his disposition. To the loyal party servants who helped him make without stint, for not in history was there such a prolonged period of the bulging purse.

But the times have changed and the hand that fed the patronage lions must now beat them back. Most of the pie is gone and the man who dispenses what is left for the next three or four years will have to say "No" more often than "Yes."

Farley may have the ability to say "No" and make 'em like it, but not in recent years has he had much experience along that line.

Rising Value

A stack of reasons could be given for Farley's decision to leave as early as possible to become (as good report had it) the president of Pierce-Arrow Motor company. Farley may never have measured them all out in his mind in deciding this was the time to go, but his decision turns the light on them, regardless.

First off, his $12,000 a year job as postmaster general isn't fat money for the new Jim Farley. Like many another public servant, his public life has enhanced his value in the private swirl. It isn't to be denied that Farley was doing fair to middling in the years immediately before he came into the public eye as national Democratic chairman, New York state chairman, and ultimately as postmaster general. But it is not of record that he had attained such standing in the industrial world that he was in line to head a major motor company, albeit he was well known to be a first line salesman.

Before his elevation to the cabinet he was New York state boxing commissioner, a job he received, by the way, from Governor Al Smith upon the recommendation of Jimmy Walker, ex-mayor. That also was a public office that helped build up the service value of Jim Farley. Farley has flung himself into public life with both zeal and talent, but in return public life has not done badly by him.

There's 1940

A second reason for his present departure from public life is that he isn't adverse to more of it. New York will elect a governor next year, and Farley has never indicated he would pass up a job like that just now.

Moreover, he is only 49 and should need no telescope to see the presidential possibilities for himself in 1940, especially if he should win the governorship next year.

And that raises a third point that may come into play in his stride from the mail pouches to the elegance of Pierce-Arrowdom. Genial Jim, the generous giver of patronage, is known and loved by Democrats the nation over. But if Genial Jim should stay on during the years of expected retrenchment and become Jim the denier, his lovability might be forgotten when time came in 1940 to pick a man to save the game from the Tigers.

To Farley, life has been a constantly expanding universe, and if for a time he leaves a steadily shrinking patronage job to join up with a motor company it will be right in character.

Soo Line Favors Overhead Leading To Superhighway

Would Remove Y Track Section to Make Way for College Avenue Viaduct

A favorable report this morning was received by Mayor John Goodland, Jr., from Soo line railroad officials on the removal of a Y section of track on College avenue near the city to build an overhead in the event College avenue is chosen as a connecting link to Superhighway 41.

The report stated that although it would inconvenience company operations, it would be possible to move the south and west Y sections providing about 1,500 of new connecting track is installed parallel to the existing track which leads to the Chicago and North Western transfer track.

An investigation of possible connecting routes is being made by a representative of the Green Bay engineering division of the state highway department but a report has not yet been submitted.

Several proposals are being considered besides the extension of College avenue, including extension of Packard street, Spencer street or Prospect avenue. The engineer is making a survey of Highway 125 as a possible route to streets leading to Prospect avenue and then to College avenue by way of Memorial drive or any other street chosen.

If College avenue is chosen as the connecting link to the Superhighway, the construction of a short viaduct over the main line of the Soo line would now be possible at a comparatively low cost.

'SAGE' DIES

Ed Howe, 'Sage of Potato Hill,' Dies in Kansas

Atchison, Kans.—(AP)—Edgar Watson "Ed" Howe, "the sage of Potato Hill," died yesterday at Atchison, Kans., of the infirmities of age complicated by paralysis. He was 84 years old.

Funeral Services to be Conducted Tuesday at Atchison

Atchison, Kans.—(AP)—Edgar Watson "Ed" Howe, "the sage of Potato Hill," has achieved his "absolute triumph."

After a long lifetime of observing and writing about the foibles of plain people, the 84-year-old author, editor, philosopher, died yesterday in his sleep of the infirmities of age complicated by paralysis.

His death fulfilled his once expressed desire "my hope is to go to bed one night after a hard day's work and never awaken."

The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at his home here—"Potato Hill"—with the ritual of the Episcopal church.

Mr. Howe was perhaps best known for his novel, "The Story of a Country Town," which he published in his own country newspaper after other publishers had rejected it.

He founded the Atchison Globe in 1877 and retired from it 37 years later. His active mind, however, could not be at rest and he began publication of "E. W. Howe's Monthly," devoted to "information and indignation." In this magazine, which Mr. Howe discontinued in 1933, appeared such pungent paragraphs from his pen as:

"All my life I have heard men clamoring for more rights. It has always seemed to me I exercise more rights than are good for me. I am at liberty to do a hundred things I shouldn't do. I have always been too much of a freeman."

Howe's death followed by days that of his former wife, Mrs. Clara L. Howe, 50, from whom he was divorced more than 35 years ago. She died last Wednesday at her home in Falls City, Neb.

When he was 80 years old Mr. Howe wrote:

"At 80 I am not afraid of the future. I have been treated with reasonable justice all my conscious life, and expect as much of the future. No one can convince me there is a hell after death to torture me for eating, drinking, loving, hating, venturing."

Mr. Howe's survivors include two sons, Eugene A. Howe, Amarillo, Texas, editor, and James P. Howe, Walnut Creek, Calif., and a daughter, Mrs. Mateel Howe Farnham, New York.

Both young women were riding in a car driven by James Mug, 21, of Plymouth when it collided with a machine driven by Walter Machut, 47, town of Lima in Sheboygan county. No inquest was held.

Justice Black Is Seated as Member Of Highest Court was in session, before adjourning until next Monday, Black sat solemnly at the left of Justice Roberts.

He looked over to where Mrs. Black was seated and frequently glanced about the packed chamber.

When court recessed, Mrs. Black turned to leave. Mrs. Hughes, wife of the chief justice, and Mrs. Brandeis, wife of Associate Justice Brandeis, smiled warmly and apparently introduced themselves as they shook hands. Mrs. Black and Mrs. Hughes talked and laughed together for a few minutes.

As Mrs. Black walked from the courtroom, there was a rush of friends to greet her.

Levitt was beaming when he emerged from the courtroom.

"It was exactly what I expected," he said, "because it was following the ordinary decorum of the court."

Mr. Black's credentials were received at face value. The court has taken jurisdiction over the matter and it will, in due time, give an opinion, my acceptance of which as a definite opinion will depend entirely upon its character and the reasons they adduce to support it."

Kelly's Statement

Levitt said that "the presence of Mr. Black this morning" coupled with the court's action on his motion "indicates that the court will consider the questions I have raised covering Mr. Black's eligibility."

Kelly said his purpose was to challenge the constitutionality of the entire retirement act, passed last winter, under which Justice Van Devanter withdrew from the court, making room for the Black appointment.

If he is sustained, Kelly said, "Van Devanter will have to come back to the bench and Black will have to go off."

Levitt contended in his motion that there was no vacancy on the bench to be filled and that if there were, Black would be barred by the Constitution.

Retirement last June of Justice Willis Van Devanter, he argued did not create a vacancy, since the jurist still is technically connected with the court. It would be necessary, Levitt asserted, for Van Devanter to sever his connection completely by resigning.

He also contended Black was ineligible because as a senator he voted for a bill which Levitt declared increased the emoluments of a justice by permitting retirement at full pay after becoming 70 and serving 10 years. (The Constitution forbids congressmen to accept positions whose emoluments they have helped increase.)

Van Devanter retired under the provisions of this legislation and still is eligible for reappointment to lower federal courts if needed and if he is willing to serve. Black was appointed by President Roosevelt to succeed him.

Roosevelt Returning

As the justices reassembled at the end of a four-month recess to plunge into the work of deciding a huge list of litigation, President Roosevelt was returning to Washington from his journey to the far West.

Mr. Roosevelt will have luncheon in Chicago tomorrow with Cardinal Mundelein, one of the four highest officials of the Catholic church in the United States. The two men are old friends, but observers here wondered if the meeting had any special significance, coming the day after Justice Black—by his own statement a former klanster—ascends the bench.

There also was speculation here over the possibility of Mr. Roosevelt reviving his now quiescent program to remodel the judiciary and to inject "new blood" in the supreme court.

It was generally conceded the action taken by the court on administration cases this term would be an important factor.

Litigation involving in some respects eight administration measures already is pending, but there will be no action until next Monday. The most important cases involve constitutionality of sit-down strikes, validity of government loans and grants for publicly-owned hydroelectric plants, and several new challenges of the Wagner labor relations act.

If he is sustained, Kelly said, "Van Devanter will have to come back to the bench and Black will have to go off."

Levitt contended in his motion that there was no vacancy on the bench to be filled and that if there were, Black would be barred by the Constitution.

Retirement last June of Justice Willis Van Devanter, he argued did not create a vacancy, since the jurist still is technically connected with the court. It would be necessary, Levitt asserted, for Van Devanter to sever his connection completely by resigning.

He also contended Black was ineligible because as a senator he voted for a bill which Levitt declared increased the emoluments of a justice by permitting retirement at full pay after becoming 70 and serving 10 years. (The Constitution forbids congressmen to accept positions whose emoluments they have helped increase.)

Van Devanter retired under the provisions of this legislation and still is eligible for reappointment to lower federal courts if needed and if he is willing to serve. Black was appointed by President Roosevelt to succeed him.

Roosevelt Returning

As the justices reassembled at the end of a four-month recess to plunge into the work of deciding a huge list of litigation, President Roosevelt was returning to Washington from his journey to the far West.

Mr. Roosevelt will have luncheon in Chicago tomorrow with Cardinal Mundelein, one of the four highest officials of the Catholic church in the United States. The two men are old friends, but observers here wondered if the meeting had any special significance, coming the day after Justice Black—by his own statement a former klanster—ascends the bench.

There also was speculation here over the possibility of Mr. Roosevelt reviving his now quiescent program to remodel the judiciary and to inject "new blood" in the supreme court.

It was generally conceded the action taken by the court on administration cases this term would be an important factor.

Litigation involving in some respects eight administration measures already is pending, but there will be no action until next Monday. The most important cases involve constitutionality of sit-down strikes, validity of government loans and grants for publicly-owned hydroelectric plants, and several new challenges of the Wagner labor relations act.

Justice Black walked from the courtroom, there was a rush of friends to greet her.

Levitt was beaming when he emerged from the courtroom.

"It was exactly what I expected," he said, "because it was following the ordinary decorum of the court."

Mr. Black's credentials were received at face value. The court has taken jurisdiction over the matter and it will, in due time, give an opinion, my acceptance of which as a definite opinion will depend entirely upon its character and the reasons they adduce to support it."

Kelly's Statement

Levitt said that "the presence of Mr. Black this morning" coupled with the court's action on his motion "indicates that the court will consider the questions I have raised covering Mr. Black's eligibility."

Kelly said his purpose was to challenge the constitutionality of the entire retirement act, passed last winter, under which Justice Van Devanter withdrew from the court, making room for the Black appointment.

If he is sustained, Kelly said, "Van Devanter will have to come back to the bench and Black will have to go off."

Green Wave at College Will Disappear Nov. 13

Because they tied the sophomores in the events held during All-College day last week, Lawrence college freshmen, both men and women, will not have to carry their traditional green accessories as long as was generally expected.

If they had won, the period of indigence would have been shortened to homecoming weekend Oct. 30. But with the hostilities turning into a stalemate, a compromise has been effected and the yearlings may divest their green trappings Nov. 13.

The convention adopted a new constitution with only minor changes and selected Eau Claire for the 1938 convention city.

Another resolution provided for an organizational drive among employees in the aluminum, rubber, metal trades, gas and power house, and coke producing plants, municipal state and county employees, white collar workers in stores, offices, newspapers, drafting rooms, and laboratories, and insurance agents and packing house workers.

The delegates, without discussion, put through a resolution, presented from the floor, criticizing the American legion for encouraging industrialists and "enemies of labor" by condemning sit-down strikes as illegal.

Pictures of Nude Co-eds Center of Controversy at Wayne University

Detroit.—(4)—A candid camera's role in higher education, with photographs of co-eds in the nude, commanded public interest today.

Following newspaper accounts of photography as practiced to develop posture at Wayne university, civic comment developed.

Promises of inquiry were made by two city board of education members, one a woman and one a man.

As explained by Dr. Irvin W. Sander, health service director at Wayne university, the pictures are made with the subjects masking themselves to conceal identity. A nurse is present.

What follows is a study of the photograph, made against a chart, to determine incorrect bearing, and exercises for improving the posture.

Dr. Sander, expressing astonishment at publicity when "this procedure has been so long in use at hundreds" of students have been photographed at Wayne since the project was begun in February and "only three" objected.

The non-compulsory service is available to men students as well, but it was the co-ed part of it which aroused comment.

Frank Gorman of the board of education informally advised "fluoroscopic examination" in place of the photograph. He thus would avoid embarrassment.

Mrs. Laura F. Osborn, board member, suggested a "thorough investigation" to "get all our minds at rest on the subject."

Such photography, said Dr. Margaret Bell, head of the women's health service at the University of Michigan, one of the schools named by Dr. Sander as doing that work, is "routine" at virtually all colleges.

Uses Scientific Method To Rate Bridge Players

BY ELY CULBERTSON

How good is your bridge? Are you a master, an expert, an advanced player, a muddling player, or simply a duffer? I propose to tell you. How? I have developed a scientific method which will automatically rate every one's game. And now I am going to conduct, through this column, a National Bridge Examination, which will be simple, quick and decisive. By means of this examination I will not only enable you to rate yourself and to diagnose precisely your strong and weak points, but I will know at last how many of the 20 million players in this country are expert, good, muddling, or plain duffers. Besides, should you be married and your rating be higher than your wife's (or vice versa) that ought to settle it for the current year, at least. Thus, I can perhaps qualify for the Nobel peace prize and perhaps undo some of the damage that I have wrought upon so many homes.

This idea of world-wide examination of players came to me as a result of numerous requests from players who offered me cash for examining and rating their games. They wanted to know their "bridge weight," their weaknesses and what to do about them; in short, wanted to be "handicapped," as in golf. Only the other day a pretty good player offered me $100 to examine and diagnose his game. "If one knows what ails him," he said, "one is half cured."

I now propose to do for you and millions of other readers what I was unable to do for him individually, because of lack of time, with this important difference: The examination will be far more complete and thorough than could be any single, personal examination, and it will be entirely free of charge to any reader of this paper who wishes to be rated by me. Not only that, in case you fear that you may be thrust into the dub class, or do not wish me to make this embarrassing discovery (it is well known that thousands of players deliberately refrain from writing to me about their bridge for fear I will think they are not so hot), you can rate yourself in the privacy of your own home. If your wife (or vice versa) is too inquisitive, why, there is always a lockable bathroom.

The plan of examination is simplicity itself. That it will work, I can guarantee you. It has been tested thoroughly on all types of players. I will give you the details of the plan in tomorrow's column.

The bidding:
North East South West
2 diamonds Pass 2 no trump Pass
3 no trump Pass Pass Pass

West opened the heart ten, as the safest and most constructive lead. Duminy played the queen and East the king. Thereafter the contract became a laydown, since declarer could enter his own hand with the heart jack to cash a long heart and a long spade.

East could have defeated the contract by being reasonably alert. The heart ten lead had absolutely denied the jack and declarer, therefore, was marked with that vital card. It might well be (as it actually was) declarer's only entry. Had

East wisely allowed the heart queen to hold, declarer's own hand would have been dead and it would have been a simple matter to confine the dummy to eight tricks.

Incidentally, North's opening bid was wrong. Two no trump was the proper opening bid. South would have passed and the contract would have been one that could have been made without the help of the defenders.

Uncle Ray's Corner

Muskrats and Gophers

People do not like rats, and there are good reasons why they don't. Rats are a pest, and some of them, at least, spread disease.

Muskrat.

Plagues have been taken from country to country by "rats with fleas." The fleas have jumped from the bodies of dead rats, and have bitten human beings. In this way the plague has been spread.

The war on rats is important, and we may hope it will win greater and greater success. When people fight against rats or mosquitoes, they are doing something worth while.

Aside from "house rats," there are certain animals often classed as rats which do little harm to human beings. I am thinking chiefly of muskrats. They are relatives of house rats, but rather distant relatives.

Muskrats have small eyes, long tails and webbed feet. The average length of a muskrat's body is about 12 inches, and the tail is about 10 inches long.

The homes of muskrats usually are holes tunneled in banks around lakes or rivers. Some of the animals, however, build "huts" out of mud and coarse grass. These dwellings may be seen sometimes in marshes, and may rise from two to four feet above the water.

Another so-called rat is the "pouched rat" of North America, better known as the gopher. It is found chiefly between the Mississippi river and the Rocky mountains.

Gophers have bodies from six to eight inches long. They are expert diggers. With their strong, sharp-clawed front feet, they can dig a hole with great speed.

Most tunnels dug by gophers are about a foot below the ground surface. Their purpose is to make it easy for the animals to eat the roots of plants. Trees and growing plants may be badly damaged by gophers.

An interesting thing about the gopher is the fact that it has pockets, or pouches, in its cheeks. The pockets are fur-lined, and open to the outside. They are used for storing seeds and roots not wanted at once for food.

Each gopher family has a tunnel which leads to a living room, or nest. The nest is likely to be four or five feet under the ground, and is lined with grass.

Parents Usually to Blame When Children Get Burned

BY ANGELO PATRI

Fire fascinates us, draws us toward it by some magic of its own. Little children, feeling the pull of it, answering its call, knowing nothing of its dangers, are its victims too often for our credit. We are responsible for most of the accidents to little children who are burned. We could prevent much of the trouble by half trying.

Loose matches that can be struck anywhere are dangerous. If a child finds one his first impulse is to strike it and see the flame. If he finds a box of them he is set for a real blaze and, probably, a severe burn. Why have them about at all? We can buy matches that strike only on the box, and that reduces some of the hazard at least. Then we can keep these matches in a safe place and do away with still more.

Rubbish piled in corners offers a thought to a passing child. "All ready to start. If I only had a match!" Once that idea rises the match is soon provided and the fire with all its dangers gets under way. There is no excuse for rubbish in cellars, under the stairs, in dark closets, at the back fence. Get rid of it. If there are no children in your house there are plenty close by. The love of fire is latent in every one of them. A suggestion is enough to bring it to the active state, and a rubbish pile is a very powerful suggestion indeed.

This time of year potato pots are in style. The children find an old pot or can, make a fire in it, swinging it around their heads to give it a good start, and when the ashes are right, drop in a potato. The potato is only the excuse for the exciting fire not. Watch them, for such parties in the vacant lots. They are especially popular on cold evenings. Don't let handy boys tinker with the electric wiring. They may know what they are about, but then again, they may short circuit the line with inconvenient results, if not worse. It is always better to let the expert attend to the wiring. It would have been cheaper for a few people I've heard about.

If you light candles on occasion, guard against setting fire to the curtains, window shades, and drapery. And make certain that there is a guard between that candle and any child who might want to set closer to it than three feet. And, if you are a responsible person, you will not dab the Christmas tree with bits of cotton and then light flaming candles. Nor will you wear a cotton Santa Claus beard or a suit trimmed with cotton. Nor will you allow any child, over whose safety you have the slightest control, to wear such a suit. Candles or no candles, take no chances with costumes trimmed with inflammable material. Don't trim the house with material without first knowing that it is fireproof. Don't hang ornaments of any sort on lighting fixtures.

Have a fire extinguisher handy. Have one full pail of water close by for the blaze that might start from a candle to the tree. A pail of sand, handy where you are using oil, is a guard between that candle and

Foundation Garment Is Important

BY ELSIE PIERCE

FASHIONISTS, the hard hearts, are making smiles of the fall silhouette and the cylinder or lamp post. Were it not for the accent on the round, uplifted, molded bustline I would shudder with fear that the boyish form might be making a come-back. But I hardly think forerunner of the built-like-a-boy atrocity. What it refers to is a slim, but altogether feminine form.

It's all horribly hard, I'll grant. But there's no denying that it is beautiful. It means more deep bending than you've done in many a day, honest-to-goodness exercise, or else you're just out of the picture.

And it means that a good undergarment must head your list of essentials. Certainly your new wardrobe is worthy of such a garment. And certainly you need it, no matter what the figure. Even if you are a much envied sleek one, wear such an undergarment for moral support. I contend that it adds immeasurably to one's poise. When you know that you are slender and straight and not protruding or bulging, you're bound to carry your shoulders all the better and your dresses are sure to look handsomer, too. There's nothing like a good undergarment to set you up beautifully.

It's The Lines That Count

If you are a little slip of a thing you can wear an inexpensive little poof or what-do-you-call-them just to shut out the wobbles. But if you really have a figure flaw, have your corset or girdle fitted by an expert. It's worth the investment. Don't buy your corset on the bargain counter, unless you want to take the chance of having it look it. If you do, the undergarment may mar instead of make your new costume. Leading corsetiers are doing all sorts of tricks with line and fabric. They are creating optical illusion miracles nothing short of them and for all that are really allowing for freedom. Something our grandmothers never knew and they weren't called upon to be explained.

Of course if you want to get right down to the root of all figure evils you can exercise the flaws away. My complete new booklet "Reduce by Exercise" (Booklet 202) is yours for ten cents. It covers the subject thoroughly. Send for it, giving your name and full address to the Bell Library, care this newspaper, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y.

Old Gardener Says:

By E. J. Farrington

Tuberous-rooted begonias, may be carried along from one year to another if the tubers are properly cared for at the coming of winter. If they have been growing in water, the water should be withheld gradually. When the soil is dry, the pots should be stored in a dark place where the temperature will remain about 50 degrees. Tuberous rooted begonias, which have been growing in beds are usually lifted, dried and packed in sand or sawdust. It is important that this material be dry. Peat moss has also proved a satisfactory packing material. The boxes in which the tubers are packed should be stored in a room or cellar where a temperature of approximately 50 degrees is maintained. The tubers will begin to grow about March and should be potted up at that time.

It must be smothered, not spread. I hope that all teachers in all schools, and Sunday schools, leaders of children's entertainments for this holiday season, will guard against fire so that this year we will have a clean record. No fires, no children hurt, no homes desolated because someone was less than careful.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of their children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Women Picture Perfect Husband as Great Lover

BY DOROTHY DIX

A woman, who is evidently in search of ultimate perfection in a husband, has been married seven times; each time to a man who was more charming than his predecessor, she says, but who still did not come up to her ideal, so she is now about to take an eighth mate in whom she hopes to find her heart's desire.

DOROTHY DIX

In a day when even the common or garden variety of husband is hard enough to get, and when charming husbands are about as difficult to come by as Koh-i-noors, this choice lady's matrimonial exploits will fill her sister women's hearts with wonder and amazement. They will marvel at her exploit in collecting so many wedding rings and wonder how she did it. What magic did she use in snaring men? What technique did she employ? Was she a ravishing beauty? Or did her fairy godmother put the come-hither look in her eyes that no man can resist?

Most of all they will wonder why she was so hard to please in a husband, since most looking for beauty, for wealth, for intelligence, for impeccable morals, for a good dancer, for amiability, for a fireproof companion, or did she expect to find a man who would be a composite of Robert Taylor and Henry Ford, a college professor and Job and Darby.

But the quest for an ideal mate of this indomitable martyr, who refuses to be discouraged by failure and whose motto is "if at first you don't succeed, try, try again," raises the very interesting question of what qualities and attributes a man would have to possess to make him the perfect husband for which every woman longs and which she never possesses.

Most women, of course, would like for their husbands to be handsome, and when they look at the men to whom they are married who have scrambled features, bald heads and bay windows, they often wonder what made them do it. But you never saw the wife of a pretty man who didn't get a dill pickle expression when another woman began raving over how good-looking her husband was. She has had to do a hand-to-hand battle ever since her wedding day with the predatory females who wanted to look into his soulful eyes and run their fingers through his ambrosial locks. Besides, she is tired of having him spend all of the sick budget on himself, and she is sick of hearing people wonder how he ever came to marry a dowdy little woman like her.

All women want their husbands to be successful and make money, but they don't want them to give any time or attention or thought to their careers or their business if it takes them away from home or interferes with their desires. Doctors' wives and lawyers' wives consider themselves martyrs to their husbands' profession. The wives of business men are always complaining that their husbands are wrapped up in their office or factories, and they all feel that if they hadn't married the poor dubs they did, and had got the perfect husbands they deserved, that their husbands would be able to make fortunes and give them limousines and pearls and still have leisure to take them to afternoon parties and spend their winters going off on cruises.

Practically every woman pictures the perfect husband as a great lover. He never takes her for granted as her husband does. He always notices what she has on and how she does her hair, and he makes her a perpetual petting party. Yet the very woman who sighs for romance, but has her ear or the back of her head to her husband when he tries to bestow upon her his good-by morning kiss, and she would fling the coffee pot at one who interrupted her when she was trying to quiet the baby and get the children off to school and telephone the butcher and do a million other things all at the same time, by telling her how his heart beats for her alone and that she was the dream girl of his life.

Every woman wants a husband who is fire to her and ice to the balance of the world; who will let her boss him, but be a stern executive abroad; who will be a playboy and a stay-at-home; who will never see that she is getting fat; who will think that her temper is nerves and her laziness ill-health, and will never look at another woman. As no man possesses all of these qualities, no woman finds her ideal husband.

DOROTHY DIX.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

CONCERNING YOUNG PEOPLE

Dear Mrs. Post: How would a boy go about giving a party at the theatre? And as these are all young people between fifteen and sixteen years, do you think it necessary that we have an older lady present? And also do you think it necessary that he take the party somewhere after the theatre? If so, is he supposed to provide the transportation between the theatre and wherever they go, as well as see that every one gets home afterward? Most of these young people are too young to drive their parents' cars.

You give me no idea of the size of the party or whether it is to be given in a theatre that has reserved seats or in a moving picture house. At the town your letter comes from, there is a very notable theatre—so perhaps you can mean this. At a theatre of this calibre and patronized by those who undoubtedly know most of your guests, it would not be necessary to have an older lady chaperon you—because every one known serves as spontaneous chaperon. And the high class of plays chosen further serve to emphasize propriety. In this case then, let us say you engage twelve seats. You could give—or send—a ticket to each of your guests and meet in the seats you allot. Each guest would have to make his or her own plans to get to the theatre. The same would be true at the movies. You would have to arrange to rope off twelve seats (this is often done in a small town theatre, but would not be possible in a large city). You would meet in the lobby. After the performance, if possible, you ought to take them home for refreshments. If this is not possible, then to the corner drug store or a confectionary store for ice cream sodas, or other drug-store counter variety of refreshments. It would be necessary also to see that the girls are either called for at your house or at the drug store or taken home by boys of whom their parents approve.

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend tells me that I should not get up out of respect to an elderly man because no man, no matter how old, would like a girl to remind him of the fact.

Answer: This depends upon your age and where it was that you got up. If you are in your teens, and he was in his seventies, and he came into the room, or more particularly if he stopped to speak to you, you should certainly rise. And of course if he came into your own house, it is always the obligation of a hostess to rise and greet every guest. But if you are past your teens and it was not in your house, and if perhaps you got up at a table, then this was unnecessary.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood — One of the best performances in that performance-studded film, "The Life of Emile Zola," is that of Gloria Holden. I didn't realize this until I met Gloria Holden in person. Now I know she's an actress, and one of the most interesting in these parts.

Madame Zola, necessarily a shadowy character since Paul Muni is starred alone and the picture is Zola's story, not his wife's. In the film Madame Zola is little more than a background figure of sympathy and quiet understanding.

In life Gloria Holden is a vivid young person of unusual beauty, humor and intelligence. She has the blackest hair in town, and a bright smile that lights up interesting tawny eyes.

Went Into Debt

It may have been the eyes that made somebody think she would be the perfect "Dracula's Daughter." She played that one and well, but it is what is behind the eyes that is directing her present course in pictures.

You hear about actors "starving for their art." Gloria Holden didn't exactly starve, but she took a financial beating and is ready to take another, if need be, to do only what she wants to do in pictures.

She's an English girl, came to this country as a child, gravitated to the theater naturally. She had been in hit plays on Broadway before she came to Hollywood, was tested, and found herself happily with "ten-year contract."

"I took it seriously," she smiles. "That seven-year contract. I also took an apartment, sent for my furniture, and went into debt. Then they wanted me to do another 'Dracula's Daughter'—this time something about a leopard woman."

So Gloria found herself, not wishing to devote her life to horror movies, jobless in Hollywood. She had plenty of offers, but not of parts she cared to play. She held on, by renting her apartment and taking a hotel room, for nearly six months.

"I could always sell my furniture, some jewelry I had, some fineentials, and get back to New York," she says. "But I wanted to wait as long as possible. I was ready to go when 'Zola' came. They told me it wouldn't be much of a part, but I said I'd be happy to do it even if only the back of my head showed. For the chance to play in scenes with Paul Muni—you see, I want to be as superb a character actress as he is an actor—I'd have taken the part if they wanted me all my scenes would be cut."

As it happens, enough of her work remains to make a distinct impression—and Muni himself told her she deserved better roles. Whether the plaudits will bring immediate assignments of the kind she wants she still doesn't know. But on her earnings from "Zola" she is prepared to wait and see.

For her spirit, I hope she wins.

My Neighbor Says—

Root crops including potatoes, beets, carrots, cabbage and turnips should be kept in a rather cool and reasonably moist place but squash must be kept warm and dry.

M. Bird, Winnebago county highway commissioner, who received official notice of the hearing Saturday.

The notice said that the changes proposed in the vicinity of Neenah involve principally changes in highway designations made possible by opening new Highway 41 and the abandonment of the old section of that highway.

The roads proposed to be abandoned as a part of the state trunk highway system near here are described as follows:

"Beginning at the intersection of the new belt line Highway 41 and Highway 125, thence south along the present Highway 125 approximately 11 miles to the north limits of the city of Neenah;

The connecting streets not a part of the state trunk system but forming a direct connection between portions of the systems proposed to be removed are:

Lake and South Lake streets from the north to the south city limits; Winnebago avenue from its intersection with the west city limits northeast to South Commercial street, thence north and northeast on South Commercial street to its intersection with Wisconsin avenue.

The road proposed to be substituted in lieu of the ones proposed to be abandoned is described as follows: "Beginning at the intersection of new Highway 41 and County Trunk Highway O, thence east and along O to the west limits. The connection streets proposed to be substituted for those removed from the system are: Beginning at the intersection of County Trunk O and the west limits thence east along Main street and Wisconsin avenue to the intersection of Wisconsin avenue and South Commercial street."

The director anticipates a large attendance this year, but the enrollment will not be known until the end of the week.

20,000 Nazi Girls In Labor Service Help Farm Women

500 Camps in Reich, Each Taking Care of 40 Girls

Berlin—(U)—Twenty thousand German girls, between the ages of 17 and 25, daily lend willing hands to farmer's wives and country mothers. It's part of the labor service.

According to Reichsleiter Constantin Hierl, leader of the compulsory labor service—compulsory for young men but not yet for girls—the labor service is to build character, teach loyalty to the national-socialist idea and to the fuhrer and to inculcate team spirit.

One hundred thousand girls have passed through this service. There are 500 camps in the Reich, each taking care of 40 girls.

For 'Aryans' Only

The service lasts 26 weeks and each girl must prove she is 'Aryan' and must be passed by a doctor before she can enroll. She gets free board and lodging, a working kit, parade uniform, two pairs of stout shoes, bed linen, hand towels and 8 cents a day pocket money.

The day begins at 5:25 with the camp leader on duty banging a gong and giving the girls a gentle 'good morning.' Camp leaders are enjoined to avoid all appearance of militarism. Fifteen minutes of exercise is supposed to shake the sleep out of the eyes of the 'Arbeitsmaiden.' Breakfast follows the ceremony of hoisting the flag—the usual swastika with the addition of a stenciled double ear of grain—and the giving of the nazi salute. She is on the job by 8 a. m.

Some girls work in kindergarten for farm children or take care of the farm wife's babies.

No 'Men's Work'

Others help in truck gardens, bring in the hay, hoe, dig, plant, chop wood, feed hogs and chickens, drive home the cows and help in other farm work. On no account, the instruction emphasizes, is the land girl to do 'men's work.'

At 9:30 there is a second breakfast. Around 2 in the afternoon work never for the day. After a hearty meal one hour is devoted to a good sleep. This is obligatory. Then until 5 p. m. the girls may do as they please. From 5 to 6 p. m. state political instruction is given. After the evening meal there are singing and games. The beloved concertina is much in evidence. The day is ended with the hauling down of the colors and the solemn nazi salute. Lights go out at 9 p. m.

The main entrance to the project is shown here, with arrow pointing to injured worker being brought to the surface.

Neenah Waterworks Can Pump 3 Million Gallons Per Day in Emergencies

Neenah—In case of an emergency, the Neenah waterworks can pump three million gallons of water a day, according to Arthur Hanson, chemist, so the city is well protected in case a huge fire breaks out as far as water supply is concerned.

Hanson added that although this amount of pumping would be an overload on the waterworks' equipment that much water can be filtered for a few days which would be long enough to conquer any blaze which might occur here.

For this reason the pumping capacity is much greater than ordinarily required, for the average pumping a day is between 666,000 gallons and 900,000 gallons a day.

The waterworks which has been in operation only since February with the water softening equipment being used since April is one of the most modernly equipped plants in operation.

Two Diesel Engines

Power to run the electric motors which do the pumping is general furnished by two Diesel engines, only one of which is in operation at a time and the other for emergency purposes. One engine generates 360 horsepower and the other 200 horsepower.

At present, however, electricity is furnished by the Wisconsin Michigan Power company in 60-day experiment to determine whether it will cost less to purchase power to operate the pumps than to operate the Diesel engines. The engines which generate more power than needed were used when water was obtained from wells instead of from the mouth of the Fox river.

There are three low lift pumps in the plant, two of which are standbys in case of emergency. The smaller pump is capable of pumping one million gallons of water in 24 hours while the two larger pumps can pump 2 million gallons in 24 hours.

4 High Lift Pumps

There are also four high lift pumps in the plant which are used to pump the water from the reservoir to the stand pipe. Only one of these pumps is generally used, the others being stand-bys in case of emergency. The reservoir holds one million gallons of water while the stand pipe holds 600,000 gallons.

During the peak month of the year, July, there were 25,851,000 gallons of water pumped, the average being about 833,000 gallons a day with the maximum 1,350,000 gallons and the minimum 288,000 gallons.

Complicated chemistry is employed to furnish the city with drinking water free of disease and unpalatable tastes.

The chemist explained the process of the purifying system. He said the water is pumped from the mouth of the Fox River near Riverside park. As it enters the plant chlorine and ammonia is added. The chlorine is added to kill bacteria and the ammonia is added to keep the chlorine in the water longer so that more bacteria will be killed. The ammonia also cuts down the taste of the chlorine.

Carbon Is Added

As the water is pumped through the plant carbon is added to remove taste and odor, and alum is also put into the water to remove color and any remaining bacteria and make the water clear. Lime is also added to soften the water.

The amount of chemicals used varies with the amount of water being pumped as well as with the various seasons of the year.

The water then is filtered through gravel, settling basins, into the reservoir and stand pipe.

Besides Hanson, there are three operators at the plant, the chief engineer, Charles Blank, and the superintendent, Frank Mace.

Safety Workers Use Cajolery and Clubs

Psychology and punishment are both being used throughout America in the campaign to end reckless driving. Local conditions often dictate the course police adopt.

In Atlanta, the effort has centered on preventing deaths. When someone has been killed by a car a black flag is hoisted at a downtown intersection. There it flies for 24 hours as a reminder to all. If there are no accidents, a white flag bearing a green cross is hoisted in thankfulness.

In Louisville everyone knows—and fears—the phrase "nine and nineteen." That's Police Judge John Brachey's unappealable sentence for drunken drivers—nine days and $19. The judge finds it works.

New Orleans is attacking the hazard of careless early morning drivers with its Dawn Patrol, a special squad of motorcycle cops that rounds up motorists who try to take advantage of nearly empty streets.

A safety car—police operated but unmarked—cruises Washington, D. C. and bags many a traffic law violator. Suspension or revocation of driving permits follows arrests, so Washington's accident record is declining. A Citizen's Safety Committee has been formed to educate drivers.

Pegler Offers Little Sympathy for Lawyers

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—The best minds of the noble and learned profession of the law are in a great fret at the moment over Mr. Roosevelt's rather sweeping denunciation of their business. And, while, undoubtedly, there is something in their contention that the president's attack had sly political motives, it must be admitted that the boys have been asking for trouble for a long, long time.

They have earned their own dispute by tricky methods and individual misconduct, and have so far alienated the sympathy of ordinary people that, in this struggle with an enormously popular personal leader, they will have to take their lumps.

The lawyers come before the people with a reputation for underhandedness and contempt for justice, and, if the law itself, and the courts, suffer losses in the fight, the lawyers as a profession, must take their share of the blame.

Everybody has been the cunning of the lawyer in the familiar accident insurance policy, for example. Everybody is familiar with the truth that, in case of mishap on the road or almost anywhere else, the first thought of those concerned is not "get a doctor" but "get a lawyer." And the whole population has been educated by lawyers themselves to believe that in case of trouble over a disputed point or a matter of misconduct the wise course is to engage not an honest and conscientious attorney but a smart one—and to hell with honesty.

Perhaps one who has spent some time around the courts, observing the lawyers at their work and drinking with them at recess, when they talk shop, receives an uncommonly cynical, but uncommonly true impression of their attitude toward their responsibilities and justice. This is the experience of many newspaper reporters, and as one who started young and was amazed at the brutal disregard for truth and justice, I have always thought the whole profession needed a vigorous overhauling.

Back-Room Politicians Get Some Bench Jobs

We see men who are known to their colleagues and to all intimate observers as scrubby back-room politicians, appointed to important jobs on the bench or, if not appointed, then named by political gangs, which amounts to the same thing, and we realize that when the rubber comes there are judges who will do their stuff for the men who put them up.

We have talked with lawyers who analyzed the fraternal affiliations, the personal weakness and the prejudices of jurors and appealed to them. We have known of cases in which distinguished members of the bar have laced one or more stiffs in a jury box to protect their client. And your correspondent knows of a case in which a trial lawyer, once put on the stand, to give perjured testimony, a witness who was ordered out of the chair by the man on the bench with the remark that he should be locked up as a liar on his oath.

This was an obvious case of perjury which could not have occurred without specific instructions from the trial lawyer who is now himself a judge. And, regardless of Mr. Roosevelt's motives in attacking the profession, motives which are open to doubt, the fact that such a man could continue to practice, much less reach the position of judge, is one of the reasons why I share the president's contempt for those who speak of their ethics and cannons as though they were guarantees.

A few months ago the brother of a man ill of consumption wrote to me pleading for help in a case where an insurance company had refused to pay sick benefits on the ground that the insured, though "totally" disabled for an indefinite time and perhaps for the rest of his life, was not, in the legal sense "permanently disabled." He had to prove that he was both "totally" and "permanently" disabled. A combination of lawyer-words, to collect the benefits for which he had paid his premium for years.

Under pressure, the insurance company "compromised" the case, and the brother of the insured wrote to say that the sick man had received assistance which without outside help, had been refused him.

If you have an insurance policy against "total and permanent" disability, examine the fine print, written by a lawyer, you may be sure, and ask yourself what chance you have in case of a disability which is substantially total and permanent, but legally disputable, on the ground that one who is not a basket-case is not totally disabled, and (as the lawyers say) one who is still alive is not permanently disabled.

The law, yes. The courts, yes. Justice, yes.

But, Lawyers; phooey.

Outbreaks of Hog Cholera in State Are Under Control

Receive No Additional Reports of Disease in Various Counties

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—Outbreaks of hog cholera in widely separated areas in Wisconsin, including Calumet and Winnebago counties, have been brought under control, Dr. Walter Wisnicky of the livestock sanitation department of the state department of agriculture, reported today.

Fifteen counties representing all sections of the state last week reported to the state department in factations of the dreaded disease, but no additional reports have been received in the last few days, Dr. Wisnicky said.

Counties affected, besides Calumet and Winnebago, were Green, Buffalo, Ashland, Bayfield, Langlade, Jefferson, Rock, Walworth, Trempealeau, Columbia, Dodge, Dunn and Fond du Lac.

Dr. Wisnicky explained that his department is exercising strict sanitary regulation to prevent the spread of the disease, which is acutely contagious, but in spite of all efforts some hogs are being imported into the state illegally, he said. He asked the public to assist in uncovering this illegal practice by reporting all known cases to his office.

Detailed instructions for combating the disease have been dispatched to all county agents, he announced.

By Gene Ahern

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

SYNOPSIS: When Neill, a young federal agent, gets to Baltimore for a week's vacation, he finds he is under the thumb of a cunning dame who, by a series of coincidences, has come to know of his coming. From what Prescott Fanning, a friend of Neill's, learns, Neill distrusts Fanning, dubs him a crook. They quarrel and part. To check on Fanning, Neill finds him at his hotel and gets acquainted in the bar. Fanning invites him to join his party, but Neill passes out in the taxi, doped. Next morning he awakes in a room he never saw. Fanning's yacht is gone. The taxi-driver of the night before tells him of trading them and another couple, then losing them.

KAUKAUNA Taking advantage of breaks to score three touchdowns, Kaukauna High school defeated New London here Saturday afternoon in a hard fought game, 22 to 7. Kobussen drove over for the Kaws' first two scores in the first and last quarters, with Alger falling upon a fumble over the goal line for Kaukauna's last touchdown. A safety in the second period gave the Kaws two more points which, added to Giordana's two points after touchdowns, made up the Kaw 22.

New London scored in the second period on a 40-yard touchdown run following a completed pass for 25 yards.

New London Receives
New London received Lambie's kickoff with Poepeke returning it 13 yards to his own 33 yard line. After Clark had picked up three, Poepeke dropped back and tossed a pass to Meinhardt for a first down on Kaukauna's 41. Poepeke was stopped after a yard gained, and on the next play Meinhardt, an end who had most of the New London kicking, kicked to McCormick who was downed on his own 30.

Two Kaw plays gained but two yards and Peterson kicked to the New London 30. After three plays had failed Meinhardt punted back to McCormick on the Kaw 40. Kaukauna's offense again failed to click and Peterson's partially blocked kick gave New London the ball on its own 40. Poepeke completed a toss to Clark for 12 yards and a first down on the Kaw 48. After another aerial by Poepeke was incomplete, Peterson intercepted another attempt to the New London threat. Neither team threatened until just before the first period when Kaukauna took a New London punt on its own 30 and started a drive for a touchdown.

Kaws Get Break
Peterson picked up six and added three on his second attempt. Here the first quarter ended, with Giordana making three and the Kaws' initial first down of the game on the first play of the second quarter. From the Kaws' own 42 McCormick, Kobussen and Peterson managed only nine in three downs and Peterson kicked out of bounds on the New London 11 yard line. Poepeke fumbled for a 9-yard loss and Meinhardt gave the Kaws their first break by getting off a bad punt which went out of bounds on New London's 15.

Peterson made two yards over right tackle and McCormick made three over left tackle. After Peterson's aerial to Alger was incomplete Giordana ran nine yards to the 1-yard line. Kobussen crashed center and when the pileup was uncovered the ball was six inches from the goal. Kobussen cut over to the right and Peterson's kick was wide and Kaukauna led, 6 to 0.

Several plays later Kobussen kicked out of bounds on the New London 5-yard line. On the next play the ball was passed over Clark's head, landing in the end zone for an automatic safety and giving Kaukauna two more points.

New London Scores
Kobussen returned New London's kickoff to his own 40 and on the first play quick-kicked to Poepeke who returned to the New London 35. On the next play Poepeke fumbled and tossed a 25-yard pass to Clark who caught the ball and raced 40 yards down the sideline for a touchdown. Poepeke's dropkick was good for the extra point and the half ended several plays later with the Kaws on the long end of a 6-7 score.

New London made its third first down of the game at the outset of the second half. Clark made 5 from his 35 yard line to where Poepeke had returned Peterson's kickoff. B. Stern added four and Poepeke made 13 to make it first and ten on their own 48. Clark rec'd off seven and Poepeke made one but Poepeke's pass to Meinhardt was incomplete and Meinhardt then kicked out of bounds on the Kaw 14. Peterson punted back to give New London the ball on its 48. Poepeke lost two, Clark's pass to Poepeke was incomplete and Clark made two to make it still ten yards to go on fourth down. With the Kaws expecting a kick Poepeke threw an aerial to Hammerberg for a gain of 12 yards and a first down on the Kaw 40.

Poepeke ran the punt back about 30 yards before he was downed on the 40 near the sideline. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Gophers Will Take Defeat Out on Indiana Hoosiers

BY EARL HILLIGAN
CHICAGO (U-P) — Nebraska's gain shaped up as Indiana's loss today.

Minnesota's Golden Gophers—as grim as they were chastened—settled down to a week of hard work, trying to forget that 14 to 9 tarnishing they took from the Nebraska Saturday and looking ahead to taking it out on Indiana's Hoosiers at Minneapolis next Saturday.

Coach Bernie Bierman described the Gophers' play against the Cornhuskers as "sluggish" and if work will turn the trick, the poker-faced mentor will have his Minnesota machine well-oiled for its next tilt.

Michigan, Notre Dame, Iowa, Northwestern and Wisconsin complete the Gopher schedule and the Northwestern are going to take Saturday's stunning defeat out on some of those teams—if not all.

Ohio Whips Purdue
Ohio State's skyrocketing Buckeyes, impressive in their opening victory against Texas Christian, came back Saturday to whip Purdue 13 to 0 and next Saturday journey to Southern California, which lost to Washington 7 to 0.

The Michigan - Northwestern game at Evanston looms as a bitter battle. Northwestern, with fleet Bob Swisher scoring three touchdowns, whipped Iowa State 33 to 0, but the state Cyclones did not show enough to give the Wildcats much of a test.

Michigan, while losing a thriller to Michigan State, 19 to 14, showed in a previous game over Wolverine teams of the past several seasons.

Wisconsin, showing a good line and backfield speed, downed Marquette, 12 to 0, and will be favored to take Chicago, which lost to Vanderbilt at Nashville, 18 to 0.

Notre Dame's Irish looked impressive in downing Drake, 21 to 0, and will be heavy favorites to put the first defeat on the record of Illinois, which had to accept a scoreless deadlock from a strong DePaul eleven.

Iowa, which was idle Saturday, entertains Bradley Tech of Illinois.

Fullback Johnny Reed Is Big Star for Winners

RUNS, KICKS, PASSES

Rocket Drives Stopped By Fumbles, Interceptions

BY TOM MASTERSON

NEENAH—Scoring three touchdowns and an extra point, Fullback John Reed literally ran away from the Neenah High school eleven to pace Shawano to a 25 to 0 victory here Saturday afternoon. It was Shawano's second victory this season in the Northeastern Wisconsin conference.

Besides doing most of the ball carrying the fast, shifty back called signals from the fullback position, threw all the passes and did the punting.

Reed didn't get started until the final minutes of the first quarter during which most of the fighting was concentrated in midfield, but during the rest of the game the Red Rockets were on the defensive. Neenah didn't have an opportunity to maintain a sustained drive, each effort being curtailed by fumbles or intercepted passes.

Capitalized on Breaks
Although Reed had little trouble evading Neenah tacklers, Shawano really capitalized on Neenah's bad breaks, scoring its first touchdown as the result of a bad punt, its second on an intercepted pass, the third after a blocked punt and the fourth as the result of a Neenah fumble.

Reed went over for the first touchdown a minute after the second quarter opened. Halfback Frank Heertl got off a bad punt which was downed on Shawano's 45-yard line. Reed moved the ball to Neenah's 48 on an off-tackle smash and then dashed eight yards for a first down. Shawano drew a 15-yard penalty, and then Reed got loose on a 16-yard jaunt, hitting off right tackle. Halfback McPherson picked up three yards and Reed added two and a half more before he galloped 24 yards to a touchdown. His place kick failed.

Shawano was headed for another touchdown at half time, having reached the 6-yard line, when the whistle sounded.

Neenah Guard Hurt
During the first half Vanderwalker, Neenah's right guard, sustained a collar bone fracture. It was the second tough break the Christophers suffered this season. Co-captain Dale Dodge having been injured a few hours before the Messmer game last Saturday.

A few minutes after the second half started Guller, Shawano center, intercepted a Neenah pass on Neenah's 35-yard line and wasn't downed until he reached the 22-yard line from where Reed galloped to the second touchdown. The attempted placekick failed.

After a sustained drive from midfield, Shawano was stopped on the 9-yard line. Neenah attempted to punt out of danger, but Heertl's kick was blocked.

Left end Schweers caught the punt and returned it to the 3-yard line and Reed pushed it over. Reed's placekick was good for the extra point.

A few minutes later Guller recovered Birdsal's fumble on the 30-yard line. In meantime both coaches started to substitute with Coach George Christoph sending in his entire squad.

After Bowman had picked up three yards, Bill Reed, brother of John, went to the 20-yard line for a first down, and on the next play 20 yards for a touchdown. The final placekick was blocked.

Throughout the entire second period the Red Rockets failed to cross the 50-yard line.

WISCONSIN SCORES 12 TO 0 WIN OVER MARQUETTE

Harry Laysenaar, Marquette quarterback, gained two yards on this play after finding an opening in the left side of the Wisconsin line, but the Badgers, conquered the Hilltoppers, 12 to 0, before 31,000 persons at Madison. Wisconsin scored in the first and fourth periods.

middle of the line held well and on sweeps the ends and tackles broke off Sheboygan interference and left the ball carrier as devoid of blockers as a new born babe of clothes.

Sheboygan scored on the Terrors in the fourth stanza on a well-directed passing drive but the marker was something of a gift for Terror reserves made up most of the backfield and practically the entire line. The linemen, especially, didn't rush the Chair passer as hard as the regulars did.

Offensively the Terrors still can show improvement. Their attack stumbled four times when they used placekicks to get points. Sample's first touchdown was an individual feat while the second marker was the result of the only concerted drive. A peculiar fact is that the backs who broke up Sheboygan's interference with beautiful blocking were the same backs leading the way for the Appleton ball carriers and their efforts weren't so good.

The other weakness on the part of the Terrors was their handling of certain punts. Nothing happened, it's true, but several times backs attempted to handle punts right in the midst of a flock of Sheboygan boys. They got away with it and at least once Bud Hoepfner ripped off a nice gain. But had he not been treated so gently by the Chairs he might have been the victim of costly fumbles.

Sheboygan kicked off to Appleton and Sample returned 30 yards to the Sheboygan 40. An exchange of punts followed with Sheboygan attempting to take advantage of the wind at its back. However, the Chair kicker wasn't getting the ball into the air high enough. After Swamp ran a punt back 20 yards to the Sheboygan 41. Sample gave the Terrors a first down on the 24 on a fake punt. Here the attack bogged and Appleton attempted a place-kick with the ball on the 20-yard line and kicked from about the 35. The distance to the posts, however, was 45 yards from where the ball was booted.

Play Called Back
The ball went into play on the Sheboygan 20 and the Chairs punted to Filz who returned about 25 to the Chair 37. Oliver just missed making connections with a pass from Filz on the 10-yard stripe after which the Terrors rushed the ball to a first down on the 27. Shortly thereafter Sample got away for a gallop to the 15-yard line but the play was called back and the Terrors then attempted a second placekick which was short and wide.

Shortly after the second quarter opened the Terrors were forced back into their own territory where they gave followers several anxious moments. With the wind in their backs they failed to punt immediately to chase the Chairs back. Instead, they attempted a forward pass with Filz surrounded. He was completely surrounded by Chair players but tried to heave the ball anyway. It was deflected up and came down in the arms of Neuwirth, guard, who was tackled on the Appleton 20-yard stripe.

Here the Terror defense showed its stuff and stopped the Chairs. The invaders drew a pass, Putnam to Wolf to put the ball on the Terror 7 where the highs started a great stand. They knocked down three passes in a row, and once Oliver missed a chance to intercept by inches. Had he connected he'd have had an open field before him.

also piled up 15 first downs to the Golden Avalanche's one.

Vince Gavre, junior quarterback from Port Edwards, tallied Wisconsin's first touchdown, in the opening quarter. After a drive at the line by Howie Weiss, veteran Ft. Atkinson fullback, which placed the ball on Marquette 5 yard stripe, a total gain of 28 yards, Gavre scored. He skirted right end after faking a lateral to Bellin and fell across the goal. Robert Eckl's extra point placement went wide.

The only other score of the afternoon came in the final quarter. After a pair of forward and lateral pass plays had put the ball on the

Packers Humble Detroit's Lions

Hilltop 14 yard marker, Tony Gradisnik raced through right tackle, shook off three would-be tacklers and fell over the goal. Bronko Maleschewich's attempted place kick went wide.

Another thrilling moment was furnished the fans, when Maleschewich, near the end of the first half, broke loose after intercepting a Marquette pass and traveled 60 yards to the opponents 20 before being tackled. Herb Paul, Rice Lake substitute fullback, plunged to the four yard line, but the end of the half prevented the Badgers from pushing over another score.

GREEN BAY—The Green Bay Packers, national professional football champions last year, looked like champions again yesterday when they decisively defeated the Detroit Lions, 26-6, before a record crowd of 17,553.

The convincing victory was Green Bay's first this season, but showed that the Packers could not be sold short in this year's league race.

The first Packer tally came two minutes after the game started when George Svendsen, Green Bay center, blocked Dutch Clark's punt. Green Bay recovering on the Lions' 29-yard line. The Packers opened with a series of short line smashes, finishing the drive when Fullback Clark Hinkle carried the ball over on a right tackle smash. Ernie Smith missed the kick for extra point.

The Packers scored again in the third period on three running plays that netted 63 yards. Miller, substitute for Monnett, carried the ball the last 13 yards for the Wisconsin team's second score. Ernie Smith again failed to convert.

Long Pass Scores
The Green Bay scoring machinery was put into high gear in the fourth period when the winners scored two more markers. The first came on a 77-yard forward pass play, Monnett to Gantenbein, the Packer captain twisting more than 70 yards after receiving the ball. Hinkle kicked the extra point.

Late in the final quarter the Packers launched a ground attack from their 42-yard line and marched to the Detroit goal line. Monnett punching it over from the 9-yard stripe. Smith placekicked the extra point.

The Lions' lone score was brilliantly fashioned in the second period when they carried 80 yards to the goal line in four plays, the last a 23-yard pass. Clark missed the try for extra point.

MORTAL STARS: TEAM LOSERS
Chicago—(U-P) —Geynell Tinsley apparently isn't content to just win his spurs as a National Professional Football league "freshman" he straps them on for every battle.

The huskier American end from Louisiana State, who has blazed a brilliant path through the pro-league ranks from the start of the season, gave another demonstration yesterday of his right to be hailed as one of the standout first-year men of the season.

In the second period of the Cleveland Rams-Chicago Cardinals game before 10,000 fans at Cleveland, Tinsley scooped up a fumble by Harry Mattos and ran, stumbled and battered his way 20 yards for the touchdown which gave the Cardinals a 6 to 0 victory. Tinsley, a 195-pound six-footer, fell to the ground on the five-yard marker, but regained his feet and continued over the goal line.

The New York Giants whipped Philadelphia 16 to 7, one of the features being Emmett Mortell's 88-yard return of a Giant punt to set the stage for a short touchdown pass to Bill Hewitt. The final Giant marker was on an 18-yard run by Ward Cuff, former Marquette University star.

Washington's Redskins, scoring a second period touchdown, defeated Brooklyn 11 to 7 in the rain. Sammy Baugh whipped a short pass to Wayne Miller, who scampered 15 yards for the Redskins touchdown. Riley Smith booted a field goal for Washington in the third stanza and in the final period Turk Edwards blocked a Brooklyn punt and McCaskey fell on the ball past the end zone for a safety.

Heavier Cathedral Team Wrests 14-6 Win From St. John

Little Chuters Lead at Halftime; Helf Plunges For Score

LITTLE CHUTE—After leading 6-0 in the first half, the St. John High school football team fell back before the attack of the heavier St. John Cathedral High school squad of Milwaukee here yesterday afternoon, losing 14-6.

The Chuters scored their touchdown after getting the ball on the Cathedral 33-yard line. Hammen plunged for three yards, two passes failed, and Koehn shook himself loose for 20 yards around end.

Les Helf hit the line for five and Koehn picked up another five on a sneak play, bringing the ball to the 2-yard line. Jerome Helf plunged over for the marker.

Chuters Outplay Foes

The Chuters outplayed their foes the first half, showing a stubborn line that once held the Milwaukee team after it had earned a first down on the 11-yard line.

The Cathedral team opened up with a fast-moving offensive, led by Dams, the fullback, as the second half started but ended when Hammen broke up a fourth-down pass on the 15-yard line.

Koehn was tossed for a 4-yard loss on the next play and L. Helf booted the ball out to the 40-yard line. Cathedral's attack again began to click and after a series of line plays aided by a 15-yard penalty called against Little Chute for piling on after the ball was dead, the Milwaukee team reached the 2-yard line.

Machi, Cathedral quarterback, tried twice to hit the line for the score and was thrown back and the Chuters took the ball.

Shoved out of position as he tried to block an onrushing line-man, Koehn held up Les Helf's punt and the ball went out of bounds on the Chuters 20-yard line, setting the stage for the first Cathedral marker.

Dams, Machi, and Donahue brought the ball to the 4-yard line and the quarterback slipped around end for the touchdown. Dams kicked the point.

Air Attack Backfires

A St. John aerial attack backfired in the last quarter as Dams intercepted one of Red Boots' flings, romped 40 yards for the second Cathedral touchdown and kicked the point after.

The Chuters went into the air and were almost successful, reaching the Cathedral 20-yard line when Dams intercepted another pass.

Cathedral kicked out of danger and the Chuters ran two plays, one of them a pass from Boots to Siebers good for 25 yards as the game ended.

1937 Major League Baseball Was Success From Financial Angle

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

THE 1937 major league season is a matter of history, with only the World series chapter still to be written, but up and down the big time a lot of the things that happened in the last 53 months won't be forgotten in a hurry.

Aside from New York's second straight championship monopoly, the developments that seem stand-outs as you look back over the campaign were its success from a financial viewpoint, the epidemic of injuries that hit every club in both loops, the surprise that was pulled out of the hat by the Boston Bees and the high-class wallowing of Ducky Medwick and Joe DiMaggio.

The New York Yankees murdered 13 games in front in their pennant chase during the season, largely because the rest of the American league fell apart at their approach. The Giants found the going tougher, but once they climbed into the saddle, there was no stopping them. This became particularly apparent when the last of a long series of injuries deprived the Chicago Cubs of their first baseman, Rip Collins, in early August, definitely confining the Cubs to second place. The Giants wound up with a 4-1 win over their best-hated rivals, the Brooklyn Dodgers, yesterday.

The fine showing of Jimmy Dykes' Chicago White Sox in upsetting the dope by winding up third in the American league, finishing with a 2-0, 7-2 doubleheader win over the last-place Browns yesterday, stood out in the American league.

Bees Fool Experts
The major job of fooling the experts was turned in by the Boston Bees and manager Bill McKee. Rated a seventh or eighth place outfit, they finished just a game out of fourth place on the strength of two 20-game pitching rookies, Lou Fette, who hit the 20-mark yesterday with a 6-0 shutout over the Phillies, and Jim Turner.

The National league cellar was "won" by the year's biggest bust, the Cincinnati Reds, who absorbed a 4-3, 4-0 twin defeat at the hands of the Pirates yesterday. The double win marked the twenty-first victory the Reds scored over the Reds during the year, equalling a major league record.

The Cardinals, minus Dizzy Dean who was of no use after having a hand in the National league's loss to the American league in the All-Star game, just made third place, dropping their finale to the Cubs, 6-4.

Boston's Red Sox again were the "gold flops" for Tom Yawkey and finished fifth. Their finale was a 6-1 beating at the hands of the Yankees yesterday, featuring Joe DiMaggio's homer with the bases loaded.

Cleveland's Indians again were a disappointment and rode in with fourth place. Johnny Allen, who had won 15 straight since recovering from illness, dropped the season's windup, 1-0, yesterday to the 1-hit pitching of Jake Wade of the Tigers.

Washington's Senators and the Athletics, neither of which was ever in the race, split their last doubleheader, the A's taking the first game, 5-4, and losing the second, 4-3.

Double Murder Held 'Kid's Job'

Red Circles Drawn on Foreheads of Slain New York Couple

New York—(AP)—Police termed "a kid's job" today the woodland murder of a trusting couple shot to death in a parked car and marked on the forehead with red circles drawn with the slain girl's lip-stick.

Convinced Frances Hajek, 18, and her sweetheart, Lewis Weiss, 20, had been trailed and killed by a jealous suitor, detectives questioned her parents to learn what other boys she knew.

The bodies of the youth and the girl, each shot twice through the head, were found yesterday by a passerby who noticed the car parked in a secluded nook in Hollis woods, in Queens.

Weiss, an honor high school graduate two years ago apparently was slain first. A husky 200-pound former basketball and baseball star, he had died without a struggle.

Police said the assailant then appeared to have held Miss Hajek by her jacket while he fired two bullets into her brain. She also was stabbed seven times in the chest with an icepick or a stiletto.

The killer fled after marking red circles, about 1 1/2 inches in diameter, with lipstick on the foreheads of his victims.

Deputy Chief Inspector John J. Ryan discounted an earlier theory that the slaying was the work of the uncaught maniac known as "3 X" who within a week in June, 1936, slew the escorts of two girls as they sat in parked cars.

Chief at Kimberly Urges Elimination Of Fire Hazards

Kimberly—Fire Chief Alex Malcolm stressed methods of eliminating fire hazards in the village, in connection with National Fire Prevention week which started Sunday. He urged care in using matches and disposal of oily waste and rags. Carelessly handled welding arcs and blow torches have caused many fires as have sparks from grinding wheels, he said.

The fire loss in the village is small compared with many other villages, but the hazards still can be removed to bring the loss by fire even lower. The loss by fire in the village last year on buildings their contents totalled $115,274. This makes about 44 cents per capita, a small loss for a village the size of Kimberly.

Chief Malcolm suggested that every citizen make an inspection of his property covering electric hazards and the condition of his roof.

Oily rags will smolder and burst into flames, and coal, if not properly stored, will become heated and ignite through spontaneous combustion. Old stoves and roofs may become dangerous and should be checked as should furnace pipes.

Chief Malcolm said that every home should have some kind of a fire extinguisher equipment to put out small fires before they become dangerous to life and property.

Holy Name society of the Holy Name church will receive holy communion in a body next Sunday morning at the 6:30 mass. At 1 o'clock in the afternoon they will hold a meeting.

The women of the Holy Name parish will hold a meeting at the schoolhouse Tuesday evening to make plans for card parties during the winter months. Wednesday evening the Christian Mother society will meet at the school.

New York—(AP)—Led by steels and rails, stocks fell back fractions to 2 or more points in today's market.

A contributory factor was a more than expected decline in the current week's steel mill operations to 66.1 per cent of capacity, off 8.3 points. The rate was the lowest since April, 1936.

Failure of the rails to respond to the week-end settlement of the lengthy wage dispute also was an influence in discouraging trading forces.

Chilling buying contingents also, brokers said, was the more definite hint of a special session of congress contained in the president's North Dakota speech today. Business news generally, lacked stimulating qualities.

A break in cotton futures to below 8 cents a pound for the first time since 1933 added to the cloudy market sentiment. Bonds were uneven.

Activity was the smallest in about a month, transfers being in the neighborhood of 650,000 shares.

At Chicago wheat was off 1/4 to 1/2 cents a bushel and corn was unchanged to 1/4 lower.

Conspicuous on the offside were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Bethlehem, Wheeling Steel, National Steel, Republic, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Southern Railway, American Steel Foundries, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, J. I. Case, Deere, International Harvester, Western Union, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, Phelps Dodge, Westinghouse, Du Pont, Radio Corp., Johns-Manville, and Alcoa.

Resistance on the offside, however, was shown by American Bank Note, Crane Co., Addressograph, Yellow Truck, Inspiration Copper, Miami Copper, Woolworth, Corn Products and United Fruit.

Curb Shares Mixed in Quiet Trading Session

New York—(AP)—Curb stocks were mixed in uneventful trading today, with a few industrial and specialty shares swinging 1 to 2 points in both directions.

The oil and utility groups, after evidencing slight forward tendencies, settled back to around previous closing levels.

Pushing up fractions to around a point were United Light and Power, "A," Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea, Gulf Oil International Petroleum and Leonard Oil.

Lac Minerals, however, was followed lethargy on the "big board."

Kansas City Puts Fear of Law Into Auto Speeders

By the AP Feature Service

Kansas—Radio speed traps are making fast drivers here jittery—and they're reducing accidents.

Portable show wave sets play a major part in the safety campaign. Kansas City is waging a war on the highway with arguments when a defendant in traffic court faces a charge of speeding.

Convictions of persons caught in radio traps have been almost 100 per cent, according to Otto P. Higgins, director of police.

Psychological Retarders

While lines have been painted across streets as part of the radio set-up. These lines have had such a potent psychological effect on drivers they will be painted at some 400 spots on the city's streets. Even though motorists know all the lines will not be traps they have no way of telling which ones are. This element of doubt has a considerable effect in cutting speed and reducing accidents, says Lieut. William Russell of the traffic department.

Here's how the system works:

A traffic officer hides behind the bushes of a deep driveway. When he sees a motorist approaching at what appears to be a high rate of speed, he picks up a telephone hand set on his portable transmitter directly opposite a white line on the street.

"Check," he yells into the transmitter, then follows with a description of the automobile.

Give Driver Break

Immediately upon the signal another officer, hidden a fixed distance down the street, presses a stopwatch. As the car roars across the white line at this station, he presses the watch again. With the aid of a mathematical chart he can tell at a glance how long it took the car to pass between the two lines.

If the driver is speeding, another patrolman who has been waiting with the checker, his motor running, zooms into pursuit. To avoid too close checking, the driver gets an allowance of approximately seven miles an hour less than the speed recorded by the scientific trap.

October Active Month at School

Football Games, Exams, Social Events on High School Calendar

Kaukauna—The month of October will be an active one at the high school according to the list of events scheduled to take place.

The Kaukauna-New London football game last Saturday started things off, with the first matinee dance of the year set for this Friday. On Saturday St. Mary's of Menasha comes to Kaukauna for a football game, and on Oct. 15 the Kaws play at West DePere. On Oct. 16, the first all-school dance, sponsored by Quill and Scroll, high school literary society, will be given. Oct. 16 also marks the end of the first six weeks period, and exams will be held.

On Oct. 19 the first luncheon program of the year will be held featuring Captain Carl Von Hoffman. On Oct. 22, the Kaws engage Menasha there, and on Oct. 30 homecoming will be held, with Neenah playing Kaukauna here as the main attraction.

Showing dissatisfaction, either by grumblings or word, is very impolite at a bridge table. It is unfair to the player's partner and unfair to his opponent, since it can be a hint to the partner.

he finally found Percita Wales, Janet's friend. "Where's Janet?" he demanded. Percita looked at him queerly and bit her lip before replying. She was a quiet, placid sort of girl. "Janet's gone away," she said. "Where?"

"I don't know." Percita flushed. "If you're going to talk to me that way..." "Sorry," said Neil. "I'm near out of my mind. A sudden thought came to me. 'Did you get a telegram?'"

"Why, yes. How did you know?" "Let me see it." She fished it out of her handbag. Neil read:

Going to Canada for a few days. Don't tell anybody and don't worry. Writing. Janet.

Neil groaned. "Janet never sent this! It's not her style." Percita's eyes widened. "Oh! What do you think has happened? Do you know anything?"

"Keep your mouth shut about this until I can find out something," said Neil. He ran out. The telegram was a night message which had been filed in the main office on Baltimore street at nine o'clock the previous evening. Neil took a taxi to the office, and asked to be shown the original.

"Sorry, we can't do that without proper authorization." "How can I get authorization?" "If it's a police matter, go to the police."

Neil went out without answering. He couldn't go to the police for after all Janet might have gone with Fanning willingly, and he could not expose her to publicity. He himself was partly responsible. Their quarrel might have spurred her on to do something reckless. Girls were like that. Meanwhile she was swallowed up. Not for a moment did he believe she had gone to Canada.

Eyster's Checked Out

He went on to the Lord Baltimore, not that he expected to learn anything there, but just to be doing something. He asked for Fanning at the desk. "Haven't seen Mr. Fanning this morning," said the clerk. He called up 1410. "No answer," he said, after waiting awhile. "Has he checked out?"

"Checked out?" echoed the clerk, staring. "Certainly not! Mr. Fanning is a permanent guest."

Neil thought Fanning is just fooling them. He's left a few things in his room for a stall. "Have you got a guest here called David Eyster?" he asked. "Mr. Eyster has checked out." Neil suspected that Eyster had better information than he had. "Say where he was going?"

"No information."

Inquiries of the bellboys and the doormen turned up nothing. He called up the office of the lawyer, Kettering, but again failed to find him. Mr. Kettering had gone to Washington for the day and would not be in.

Neil taxied back to the Stafford because he had no place else to go. At the desk he was told that his room number had been called up twice while he was out. His heart leaped up and then sank again, fearing that he had missed an important clue. "The man left no message," the clerk told him, "but he said he would call again."

Neil ascended to his room and paced the floor half crazy with the suspense of waiting. Three times he telephoned downstairs to make sure that the operator had not forgotten that he was in. When the bell finally rang, he flung himself on the instrument.

A man's voice asked: "Is this room 704?" It was a strange voice—tenor with a Scot's burr. "Yes."

"Are you the guy that rents that room?" "Yes. Who are you?"

"Never mind that. I have a message for you from a certain girl. I don't know her name. Here's what she looks like: brown hair; brown eyes with a kind of surprised look. Was wearing a pink silk dress and a black wrap."

"Sure! Sure!" said Neil shakily. "What's her message?" "She's on the yacht Nady in Ab-salom's Harbor, and she's in bad trouble."

"Where's Absalom's?" "Southern Maryland. Eighty miles south of Baltimore."

"What are the circumstances? What kind of trouble?" "Neil heard a click as the receiver went up. The line was dead."

An Unknown Enemy, Too

As Neil went through the lobby, a well-meaning clerk said: "Is anything wrong, Mr. Patton?" Neil had no notion of confiding in him. "Why no," he said easily. "What makes you ask?"

"There was a man came to the desk at 8 this morning asking for you. When I said you weren't up, he wouldn't let me call you."

"What sort of man?" "Big fellow; roughly dressed; stoop-shouldered. I went off duty at nine or I would have told you. When I left the building he was waiting outside. The other boys told me he was waiting there all morning. Did he find you?"

"Nobody found me," said Neil. "I think you're seeing things."

The clerk laughed. This added to his uneasiness. The stoop-shouldered man against it looked as if he had a friend and an enemy both unknown to him. It was certainly not the stoop-shouldered man who had called him on the phone. That was a high-pitched voice, whereas the big fellow's voice as he had heard it the night before had a subterranean rumble. Neil suspected that he had been followed all around town, and in his excitement had failed to notice it. In the street he looked sharply up and down but the big man was not visible then.

WEATHER AFFECTS CRIME

Berkeley, Calif.—Sex crimes are most common in summer, crimes against property in winter, says Dr. Hans von Hentig, German criminologist lecturing here. The greater strain of poverty in cold weather is the explanation for predatory crimes, he says, while sex crimes may be due to the effect of sunshine on certain glands.
